SINISTER OUTSIDE INFLUENCE FELT IN SACHS CASE, JURY IS TOLD

U.S. Attorney Says Evidence Shows Tax Matter Was 'Fixed'—Names Connelly, Caudle, Schwimmer.

A "sinister outside influence" was working on the Irving Sachs income tax case "from the moment it got to Washington" and the case was not decided on its merits, Wyllis S. Newcomb, chief Government counsel, declared today at the trial of Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle.

Connelly, who was President Truman's appointments secretary, and Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, are charged with conspiring to defraud the Government in the handling of the Sachs case.

Newcomb said, as the Government began its final argument in United States District Judge Ruben M. Hulen's court, that "public servants were not able to handle the Sachs case properly because of the existence of the conspiracy."

Says Case Was 'Fixed.' The Government attorney told the jury the evidence established "beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt" that the Sachs case was "fixed" and named Connelly, Caudle and Harry I. Schwimmer, attorney for Sachs, as the ones responsible for fixing it.

"The record shows that this case was kicked around for three years before prosecution was finally declined," Newcomb told the jury. "One of the questions you will have to decide is whether the delay in the Sachs case was the result of the conspiracy or just happenstance."

Sachs, a St. Louis stockbroker, pleaded guilty of income tax evasion in 1951 and was fined $40,000, but was not sent to prison.

Newcomb cited instances in which the case would have gone forward toward prosecution if some sinister influence had not been at work.

He said the case was received in the Bureau of Internal Revenue and approved for prosecution in May 1948 but was "stopped" at the mail room by Charles Olinphart, then the Bureau's chief counsel.

Health Question Raised. The following August, at a conference between Olinphart and Schwimmer, the question was raised as to whether Sachs was well enough, because of epilepsy, to escape prosecution, Newcomb continued.

"The case was not sent forward then because Connelly called Olinphart," he added. Olinphart also stopped the case in November 1948, and in February and June 1949, so that it did not reach the Department of Justice until Aug. 12, 1949, the Government attorney charged.

"Olinphart stopped it because he was in touch with Connelly and Schwimmer," he stated. After the Justice Department returned the case to the Bureau of Internal Revenue in June 1950 and it was again approved for prosecution, Olinphart again "held on to it" for three months, the jury was told.

Finally, in September 1950, despite efforts of Schwimmer to have prosecution ruled out because of medical reports he obtained favorable to Sachs, the Internal Revenue Bureau sent in its report and there was no further obstacle to prosecuting the tax defendant, Newcomb said.

Says Caudle Stopped It. Meyer Rothwachs, an attorney in the Justice Department's tax division, urged Caudle to Continued on Page 4, Column 3.

POLITICAL IMPACT OF OPERATION IS VIEWED AS LIGHT BY G.O.P. LEADER

High Party Figure Says President's Illness Is Not Likely to Have Adverse Effect on Election Chances.

WASHINGTON, June 11—A high Administration political figure doubted yesterday that President Eisenhower's second illness would have political impact seriously adverse to Republican election chances.

As Democratic and other Republican leaders debated the political implications of the President's operation, this man viewed the situation as transient as he anticipated a speedy and uneventful recovery for the President.

It was the long-range view that counted, this man said. Anything that happens between now and roughly Aug. 1 or even the National Convention, which opens Aug. 20 in San Francisco, may be discounted in terms of practical political effect, he continued.

After that time, he said any presidential disability would be highly damaging to the party. He conceded that the President's operation would cost some votes but not to any alarming degree.

He said he believed the issue of the President's health would be minimized by the doctor's report that the operation had improved his life expectancy and he should be able to stand for re-election.

"Rank Presumption," he said also that it would be "rank presumption" for anyone to say at this stage whether the President will or will not continue his candidacy for a second term. Some of the President's closest political advisers, however, forecast privately that he would stand for re-election.

The Administration source also noted that the President's operation has not carried the same sense of foreboding as his heart attack of last Sept. 24. That, he said, was a matter of life or death but the present situation was much less serious.

He attributed the relative calmness of Administration officials and party leaders to the present crisis as contrasted with the excitement and activity after the President's heart attack last September to two factors:

1. The official family and party leaders had been through this situation before and "could take it in stride."

2. The report from the doctors from the beginning of the illness that the President's condition was not critical.

In addition, he said the result of the President's coronary thrombosis there has been better co-ordination in the Administration and a conditioning for the worst.

View of Democrats.
In contrast to the political view within the Administration, Democrats believed the health issue had been sharpened by the President's ailment.

Senator Richard L. Neuberger (Dem., Oregon), said he does not believe that President Eisenhower should run for re-election in view of his health.

He suggested that some persons close to the President might "put their own political ambition ahead of his physical well-being." Senator Neuberger appeared on the American Broadcasting Company's television show, "College Press Conference."

The President's health, he said, was an issue in the campaign "whether you make it one or not."

He also was "wary" about legislation to provide for the President's removal from office if he was unable to carry out his duties. Such a law, he said, might be used some time by a "ruthless palace guard to execute a coup d'etat" to remove a President who was sound of mind but physically disabled.

As favorable reports continued to come from Walter R. Reed Hospital on the President's recovery, White House aides worked on rearranging the President's schedule.

Meeting of Aids.
Vice President Richard M. Nixon will meet informally with White House aides today, including Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President, on the new plans.

It was understood that Nixon will set in with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on Tuesday with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of the Federal Republic of Germany. Nixon also is expected to be the host at a luncheon for the Chancellor on Wednesday.

Similar arrangements were being made for the three-day official visit, beginning on June 18, of Christian Pineau, French Foreign Minister. Both Chan-

President's Daughter-in-Law Visits Him on Ninth Anniversary

President Gives Maj. John's Wife Best Wishes at Hospital Meeting Arranged by Mrs. Eisenhower.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)—Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower arranged a special meeting for her recuperating husband yesterday—a visit from their daughter-in-law, Barbara, who joined the Eisenhower family exactly nine years ago.

The President wished his son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and his 20-year-old wife, Barbara, a happy wedding anniversary during their brief visit at his bedside.

Maj. Eisenhower had been almost steadily with his mother at the hospital since Friday afternoon. It was with Mrs. Eisenhower's approval that Barbara was brought up to Fort Belvoir, Va., on the young couple's ninth anniversary.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower will observe their own fortieth wedding anniversary July 1.

Because of optimistic medical reports Maj. Eisenhower left the hospital with his wife to return to his post at Fort Belvoir and to their four children there.

Meantime, Mrs. Eisenhower was described by friends as "still quite tired." She planned to remain in her small two-room suite next to the President's where she could visit with him from time to time and cellar Adenauer and Pineau were to have seen the President. There was a possibility they would visit the President at the hospital, if doctors permitted.

The State Department was in touch with the 21 American republics, whose chiefs were scheduled to meet President Eisenhower in Panama June 24 for a two-day meeting. Under discussion was whether to postpone the meeting until the President was able to attend or cancel it.

Vice President Nixon and Mrs. Nixon attended the early children's day service at Westmoreland Congregational Church with their daughters, Patricia and Julie.

The Vice President spent the day in telephone conversations with various administration officials and visits with friends. Last night they attended a small dinner at the home of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

WESTPORT, Conn., June 11 (UP)—Westport Patrolman Robert O'Shea was returned to duty today because town officials decided they had no basis to suspend him in connection with his wife's $50,000 alienation of affection suit against comedian Martha Raye.

Mrs. O'Shea sued Miss Raye last month charging she stole O'Shea's love while he served as Miss Raye's bodyguard. O'Shea was given a "leave of absence" after the suit was filed.

O'Shea was one of the first policemen to arrive at the home of Miss Raye today when a fire, which caused an estimated $1000 damage, was reported. Firemen removed a smoldering mattress from Miss Raye's bedroom. Fire Chief Harold I. Shippey said the blaze apparently was started by a lighted cigarette.

HOUSE APPROVES BILLION SLASH IN FOREIGN AID

Sends $3,800,000,000 Measure to Senate—Authorization Vote Is 273 to 122.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—The House today passed and sent to the Senate a $3,800,000,000 foreign aid bill slashed by more than a billion dollars below President Eisenhower's request.

The vote was 273 to 122. The formal roll call vote confirmed House opposition this election year to an overseas aid program as large as the $4,900,000,000 Mr. Eisenhower said was needed for American and free world security.

Just before final passage, the House refused by a 147-to-52 vote to send the bill to the Senate by sending it back to committee.

Aid Ceilings Set.
The bill sets terms and ceilings for the program to bolster free world countries against Communism in the year starting July 1. The actual funds must be voted in a separate bill later.

Fresh trouble for the aid bill in the Senate appeared over the weekend.

Voting for the bill were 162 Democrats and 111 Republicans. Fifty-two Democrats and 70 Republicans voted against it. Missouri Democrats for the bill were: Bolling, Christopher, Hull, Karsten and Sullivan. The only Missouri Republican for the bill was Curtis. Against were: Moulder, Democrat, and Short, Republican.

MANCHESTER, England, June 11 (AP)—Opposition Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell says Britain's government should solve the Cyprus dispute by reopening talks with exiled Orthodox Archbishop Makarios or turning the problem over to the north Atlantic Treaty organization.

Gaitskell told a Manchester meeting last night his party does not approve of the Eden government's "policy of repression" in the strife-torn Mediterranean island.

He urged a negotiated settlement to give Cypriots immediate self-rule, safeguard rights of the Turkish minority on the island and provide for its use as a British military base.

"While the Labor party has kept silent during negotiations with the archbishop," he declared, "it was their duty to express their disagreement with the foolish breaking off of the negotiations, the deportation of the archbishop and the subsequent policy of repression."

Makarios was banished to the Seychelle Islands in the Indian Ocean last March after the government accused him of inciting violence on Cyprus.

Gaitskell said the Cypriots could be permitted to settle the question of enosis—union with Greece—later on. The Greek-speaking population, which comprises four-fifths of the island's 500,000 inhabitants, demands such union. The remaining one-fifth, Turkish-speaking Cypriots, argue that, if the British give up Cyprus, it should go back to Turkey.

Gaitskell said he saw no justification for Prime Minister Eden's contention that Britain's present Cyprus policy was necessary to guard its oil interests.

"If Middle East oil is the real justification for our cause in Cyprus, this is certainly not our affair but the vital concern of the rest of NATO," Gaitskell said.

Mr. Eisenhower said at a news conference last Wednesday, in reference to Twining's visit, that "I felt that there was no reason why a responsible officer of our government should not accept such an invitation... well knowing... I might be expected to extend exactly the same courtesies to one of their people that they extend to ours. I will do exactly that, the same courtesies on the same conditions, and conducted the same way."

Mr. Eisenhower said also that anything done would be "on a completely reciprocal basis" that if Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson was invited to Russia he would ask Marshal Zhukov here.

Attack on Stalin as Wife-Killer, Sexual Degenerate Is Reported

Paris Paper Says Khrushchev Made Denunciation in Second Blast Before Small Committee in Moscow.

PARIS, June 11 (INS)—The Paris newspaper France-Soir reported today a new Khrushchev attack on Joseph Stalin, accusing him of having been a sexual degenerate and a wife-murderer.

The newspaper, in a copy-righted dispatch from Vienna, said the Communist party boss in making charges before Russian leaders, proposed a "reply to the perplexity of doubts and objections by Russian Communists following the terrible revelation of Stalin's crimes."

France-Soir said the second secret Khrushchev report also outlined the new Kremlin policy and was apparently made in "reply to the perplexity of doubts and objections by Russian Communists following the terrible revelation of Stalin's crimes."

The initial charges were made before the twentieth Communist party congress in Moscow early this year. The United States State Department last week released a purported text of part of it.

Heard By Small Committee.
The new blast, allegedly made before a small committee in Moscow recently, covered many details of Stalin's personal life. Khrushchev charged that Stalin in his later years had "sexual obsessions degenerating into sadism and directed toward girls of more and more tender age."

Khrushchev, France-Soir reported, charged that a number of "these young women and minor girls" disappeared under mysterious circumstances.

The Communist party chief said the girls were recruited into what in effect constituted Stalin's harem by Lavrenty P. Beria, the former dictator's security chief and closest confidant. Beria is reported to have admitted his role before he was executed in 1953.

Khrushchev charged Stalin killed his second wife, Nadejda Allouyeva, "in a burst of blind fury" provoked by her opposition to the Stalin rule of terror and deportations of peasants during a land collectivization program. The Moscow committee was allegedly "told Stalin first shot Nadejda with a revolver, then strangled her. Khrushchev is reported to have justified his new disclosures by citing the scope and details of Stalin's crimes. He said they were such "they should bring about judicial action, even posthumously."

The Vienna dispatch said Khrushchev defined the domestic and foreign policy adopted by the Kremlin since the start of the de-Stalinization campaign. This part of the report, France-Soir indicated, apparently was designed to calm the fear of party organizations formed by and under Stalin with respect to the "new look" instituted by Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin.

A report that Khrushchev criticized the Stalinist connections of former Premier Georgi Malenkov and President Klementi Voroshilov was carried in Rome by the Italian news agency Continental. The agency said it was presenting 32 sentences missing from the State Department's version of Khrushchev's speech to the twentieth party congress.

The agency said Khrushchev's utterances, heretofore omitted, included charges that: Many Stalin prize winners were "sycophants" (flatterers) servilely courting favor. Malenkov, Voroshilov and Alexander Zhdanov, long-time party boss in Leningrad, were in "constant contact" with Stalin "even during the Beria days" but "they never took any initiative against his policies."

Stalin had an "unrealistic understanding of the Western powers regarding the development in Asia. In this manner he contributed to the creation of a dangerous situation for the entire Socialist cause as it turned out during the Korean war."

Stalin did not know how to act for years regarding India "during which the possibilities for stepping up India's move to the Socialist camp might have been significantly furthered."

LEMay PLEADS FOR 3.8 BILLION HIKE IN FUNDS FOR B-52 OUTPUT

Chief of Strategic Air Command Seeks to Step Up Production of Long-Range Heavy Bombers.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Gen. Curtis LeMay, worried about increasing Russian strength to make long-range attacks, asked today for $3,800,000,000 more for his Strategic Air Command.

The Strategic Command has the assignment to strike back with nuclear attacks if war should come. Much of the extra money would go to build more B-52s, the heavy, six-engine all-jet bombers.

Senator Chavez (Dem.), New Mexico, chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee considering defense spending, told reporters LeMay had made his request in a closed session. Chavez estimated that the Strategic Air Command already stood to receive about five billion dollars in the budget under consideration for the year beginning July 1.

Four-Year Program. Chavez said LeMay proposed that the extra $3,800,000,000 be made available for spending over the next four or five years. Chavez said he would be willing to "give it all to them."

The chairman said LeMay asked for the extra money mainly for more aircraft, with emphasis on the B-52, and also included requests for more bases and men. Just one B-52 costs $8,000,000.

LeMay told a Senate air power inquiry last month that perhaps by 1959 Russia will have enough long-range bombers and nuclear weapons to destroy the United States—if the Soviets should attack by surprise and get every break.

At the same time he said that if Russia should attack today, enough of his big bombers would remain to carry out terrible retaliation, even though the United States should suffer "very great damage."

Current Production. The current rate of B-52 production is six per month and the goal is to get it up to around 20 a month. Secretary of Defense Wilson has said the Defense Department budget called for production of 202, as compared with the Air Force's original request for 190.

The budget for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 calls for $15,666,000,000 for the Air Force. In addition, there is a separate request for $871,000,000 for Air Force military construction and legislation to transfer $350,000,000 from the Army to the Air Force to bring its over-all total for spending next year to $16,894,000,000.

The $3,800,000,000 asked by LeMay would be in addition to this figure, but would be spread out over several years.

PRINCESS NEVER GOT JEWELRY, BUT MONACO GETS BILL

MONTE CARLO, June 11 (AP)—Grace never saw the necklace and Monaco's National Council is beginning to wish it hadn't either.

But an Italian Paris jeweler insists the Monacan government owes him $73,000 more for the string of diamonds and rubies and he wants the money now.

It seems that when the engagement of Prince Rainier III and movie actress Grace Kelly was announced, the delighted council dispatched a representative to Paris to pick out a necklace suitable for a royal wedding gift.

The agent chose one priced at $107,000. He paid down $34,000 and told the jeweler to wrap it up.

When the councilmen saw the necklace, they complained it was worth only half the price. So they bought another one valued at $85,000—and gave that to Grace.

When the couple returned from their honeymoon cruise last week, the first jeweler demanded the rest of his money.

Negotiations are now in progress. The Monacans want to be sure they get their $34,000 back, and meanwhile the disputed necklace lies in a safe.

2000 Orderly Fans Watch 104 Autos In Drag Race Program on East Side

White-garbed official at right leaves ground as he gives starting signal to two automobiles in authorized drag races yesterday at Walston Field near Parks Airport, Cahokia. Other machines await turn.

95 Miles-an-Hour Top Speed Reached—5 Entry Classes—Tests of Driving Skill.

An orderly crowd of 2000 persons gathered at Walston Field near Parks Airport on the East Side yesterday to watch 104 automobiles in a program of drag racing sponsored by the Belleville Gear Jammers.

A drag race is a race from a standstill in which the contestant tries to achieve maximum speed and make the 400-yard course in the shortest possible time. Walston Field is the only place in the St. Louis metropolitan area where such racing is authorized.

In yesterday's competition, one of 13 such events to be held this year on alternate Sundays, a variety of machines were entered.

The automobiles raced the course two at a time, at intervals of about 30 seconds. Losers were eliminated and winners matched later on. Speeds up to 95 miles an hour were reached as machines crossed the finish line, where their times were recorded automatically.

Elimination Process. The automobiles raced the course two at a time, at intervals of about 30 seconds. Losers were eliminated and winners matched later on. Speeds up to 95 miles an hour were reached as machines crossed the finish line, where their times were recorded automatically.

About 79 of the entries were ordinary stock cars in which victory represented superior driving skill, particularly in shifting gears, and the condition of the engine, which had been tuned to peak performance.

Ordinary four-wheel drive cars had been equipped with various mechanical devices to improve their performance, such as special carburetors, special gear and axle ratios and special exhausts. The hot rods were more highly specialized vehicles.

Trials began at 10 a.m. but contestants were on hand at 8:30 a.m. to have their machines weighed in and checked rigidly for safety. Hub caps of stock models were removed, so they could not fly off and injure spectators. Machines had safety belts.

Amphibious Standing By. Two tow trucks and an ambulance were on hand. Portable fire extinguishers were placed strategically. The only mishap yesterday occurred when an automobile dropped its transmission at the end of the run. It was towed away. Nobody was hurt.

For safety's sake the crowd, which appeared to be mostly of the 17 to 25 age group, was kept 75 yards from the strip. There was no cheering or urging of favorites. Spectators appeared to be quietly interested in performance of the various types of vehicles. Many young men wore T-shirts and blue jeans. Many young women were clad in shorts.

A starter equipped with a flag gave the signal for the pairs of machines to roar down the strip. Their times and speeds were flashed to a judges' truck and then announced over a public address system. Machines were lined up awaiting their turn, like planes on an aircraft carrier.

Supported By Police. The Belleville Gear Jammers were organized in June 1952 under the wing of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. They meet at the Eagles Club in Belleville, are endorsed by police, and are members of the National Hot Rod Association. They have 40 members, ranging from 17 to 40 years of age.

Drag racing under the club's auspices started four years ago. The Gear Jammers average about $1300 in gate receipts. The club pays $400 a Sunday for use of the strip, charges $1.50 entry fee for each car and fifty cents admission for spectators.

The proceeds have been used to purchase scales, judges' truck, automatic timer and other equipment. In addition, the club makes frequent donations to charity. Last spring it gave $550 to the National Heart Fund.

Applicants Screened. "Applicants for membership in the Gear Jammers are screened by a committee," Wayne Mehrtens of Belleville, a club member, told the Post-Dispatch. "Their driving ability and knowledge of safety regulations are tested, and a check is made to see whether an applicant has a police record."

Mehrtens explained that if a member of the club were arrested for a moving traffic violation, that member had to pay into the club treasury a sum equal to half his fine. A second arrest, he said, meant expulsion from the club.

Twelve hot rod clubs from the St. Louis area, and from Matteson and Canton, Ill., and Springfield, Mo., took part in the meet yesterday. Clubs included the Vagabonds, Cavaliers, Strokers, Auto Jammers, Dusters, Roadrunners and Axle Breakers.

Authorized for supervised racing by the San Diego Timing Association.

87 TRAFFIC DEATHS IN STATE IN MAY, INCREASE OF FIVE

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 11 (AP)—A hot-rod racing automobile ran out of control and injured 12 persons in a crowd of spectators at an authorized "drag strip" near here yesterday. Five of the injured were children.

Mrs. Bonnie Burke, carrying her 6-month-old daughter when struck, was the most seriously hurt. She underwent surgery for head and arm injuries.

Don Menard, track manager, said the car, driven by Allan Richard, Fallbrook, Calif., went out of control when an axle broke. Menard estimated the crowd at 4000. The strip is authorized for supervised racing by the San Diego Timing Association.

ERNEST R. KONZE, WIFE GET TERMS FOR TAX EVASION

He Is Sentenced to 15 Months, Fined $25,000—She Gets 6 Months, Fined $2500.

Ernest R. Konze, commercial artist and partner in an advertising agency, today was sentenced to 15 months in prison and fined $25,000, while his wife, Mrs. Freda C. Konze, received a six-month sentence and was fined $2500 on their pleas of guilty in United States District Court to income tax evasion.

Konze was sentenced to concurrent 15-month terms by Judge Roy W. Harper, and was fined, on his guilty plea to a four-count indictment, charging evasion of $46,718 in federal taxes. His wife was sentenced on a single count.

Assistant United States Attorney Murray Randall informed the court the Konzes concealed assets of their advertising firm by bank deposits under Mrs. Konze's maiden name, and in safety deposit boxes. Their total indebtedness to the Government for taxes, penalties and interest, Randall said, was $357,000, of which they have paid $306,000 under civil liability.

Harry C. Blanton, defense counsel, sought a plea of nolo contendere for Mrs. Konze on grounds she was employed in the business by her husband, and "followed orders." The plea was rejected by Judge Harper with the observation that Mrs. Konze had been active in the business.

Officials said Mrs. Konze was the first wife to be indicted here with her husband for filing false joint tax returns. Previously, only the husband was charged in the belief the wife merely signed the return assuming it to be proper.

Although the indictment charged the pair with filing false returns for four years, 1949 to 1952, Randall told the court the civil liability began in 1946. The indictment said they reported only $51,193 of their $181,700 income in the four-year period.

Konze was granted until July 16 to arrange his business affairs, before he surrenders to the United States marshal. He will be taken to a penal institution to be determined by the Attorney General. In order that supervision of their business is assured, Mrs. Konze will not begin her prison term until after her husband completes his. The Konzes live at 7572 Oxford drive, Clayton.

ARSON SUSPECTED IN FIRE WHICH DAMAGED 2 TRAILERS

Fire of undetermined origin last night caused minor damage to two truck trailers parked next to a vacant trucking terminal at 1101 South Sixth street, which burned. Damage to the trailers was estimated at $350. There was no estimate of damage to the building. Police believe the fire was set by an arsonist.

Two unoccupied buildings at 2830 and 2832 North Eleventh street were swept by fire last night. The 2½-story brick structures are owned by the St. Louis County Commission and were scheduled to be razed.

Panel Begins Study of Problems Involving Use of Lambert Field

Special Group Surveys Conflict of Military Flying, Jet Tests at Airport—Taken to Proposed Site.

Preliminary surveys were begun today by a special airport use panel appointed to study problems involving military flying and jet plane testing at Lambert-St. Louis Field. Public hearings of the problems will open Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Assembly Hall No. 1 at Kiel Auditorium.

The panel, arriving by plane at noon, was met by representatives of the city and the Chamber of Commerce and were guests at a luncheon at the new airport terminal building.

Members are: Freeman Albery, Civil Aeronautics Board; W. R. Delinger, Office of the Secretary of Defense; Capt. L. A. Waite and Cmdr. F. H. Holt, Navy; Col. C. B. Kelly and Lt. Col. D. E. Anderson, Air Force; Leo Lord, real estate expert, Naval Problems of Aeronautics; Paul Morris, Department of Commerce; Joseph W. Johnson, secretary of the panel, and J. G. W. McNamee, assistant secretary. Lt. Col. A. G. Goodhand, Army, will arrive tomorrow.

The group was met by Charles P. Whitehead and Aloys P. Kaufmann, representing the Chamber of Commerce; Conway B. Briscoe, Director of Public Utilities and chairman of the Airport Commission; and representatives of the military services.

Following the luncheon today, the panel was taken to Elsberry, about 60 miles north of St. Louis, for an inspection of a proposed all-military airport.

Tomorrow they will inspect a similar site in St. Charles county, in the Dardenne Valley area, and also will make a close inspection of Lambert-St. Louis Field. There will be a reception for panel members at the Hotel Statler tomorrow evening.

The Municipal Airport Commission will meet at 3 p.m. today to consider the city's presentation at the hearing on Wednesday, Briscoe said.

The County League of Municipalities has taken the position that production of jet aircraft by McDonnell Aircraft Corp., and other military air operations at the municipal airport are economically desirable and should be retained.

However, league members close to the airport have expressed concern over the hazards to nearby populated areas. They were especially concerned over the four jet fighter plane crashes near the airport in the last year. Location of a military airport at a safe distance was urged.

Military flying at Lambert-St. Louis Field is by the Navy, from the large Naval Air Base, and by the Missouri Air National Guard.

Capt. Clayton L. Miller, commander of the naval base, has proposed construction of a separate all-military airport in the St. Louis area as a means of reducing flight hazards at the field. Under the proposal, all flying branches of the armed services and of the McDonnell Corp. would be moved to a new outlying field, leaving Lambert-St. Louis Field for commercial and private flying.

The Air National Guard position was urged.

CAPT. GREENSPAN GOES TO TRIAL ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Court Denies Shenker's Plea for Continuance Because Pay-Off Inquiry Is Continuing.

Detective Capt. William Greenspan went on trial today on a charge that he accepted a $50 bribe from Ethel Cliff, brothel operator.

The case was assigned to the court of Circuit Judge J. Casey Walsh despite objections by Morris A. Shenker, defense attorney, that it would be unfair to have the trial at this time. Shenker filed a motion to continue the case, which was overruled.

Shenker protested that Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd is continuing the pay-off inquiry, a situation which the defense attorney claimed would act to the detriment of his client in a trial.

He also contended the "people's mind has been saturated by one-sided statements of the circuit attorney."

Shenker also filed a motion to suppress the evidence, arguing that Dowd knew Greenspan was a prospective defendant when the officer testified last year before the circuit court grand jury.

Judge Walsh overruled this motion and selection of a jury began. Dowd appeared to prosecute the case personally.

Greenspan, who faces three other charges of accepting bribes, is one of three indicted in the inquiry into reports that some St. Louis policemen accepted pay-offs from brothel operators.

Others under indictment are Police Lt. F. Lyman Davis and Cpl. George Wood. The three policemen have been suspended pending disposition of the charges.

TRAIN DERAILED IN ILLINOIS

Twenty-four cars of an 85-car Illinois Terminal Railroad freight train were derailed yesterday near Minier, Ill., about 150 miles northeast of St. Louis. No one was injured.

Cause of the wreck was not determined immediately. Several cars rammed power poles, cutting off electric service to some farm homes for several hours.

"let the case go," the prosecutor said. "Who stopped it?" he asked, "Caudle!"

Referring to Caudle's contention that he felt it was "sadtistic" to prosecute Sachs because of his health, Newcomb pointed out the health issue was never raised until the case reached the Department of Justice four years after the tax investigation began.

In charging that the case was not decided on its merits, Newcomb said that, according to the rules and practices then prevailing in the Internal Revenue Bureau and Justice Department, the "proper governmental practices were not followed."

The Sachs case involved a "wilful and deliberate violation" of the law that continued even after the Internal Revenue investigation was "launched," the Government attorney stated, adding there was never any doubt about the violation.

Connelly on Stand Again.

Before final arguments began, Connelly, who had testified in his own defense last week as did Caudle, returned to the witness stand briefly to tell under what circumstances he received a topcoat from Schwimmer.

Connelly testified he got the coat while he was at the Muehlebach Hotel in Kansas City the day before the presidential election in November 1952. He said "everything was confused and people were streaming in and out of Truman's headquarters" at the hotel.

He told the jury that "Schwimmer's gift had nothing to do with any case," adding that "Sachs meant nothing to me."

Connelly testified the White House staff was "deluged with gifts," saying that it "was embarrassing to accept them" in many instances.

Taylor Testifies.

The defendant was recalled to the stand by the defense after the Government, in rebuttal testimony, called Rocco Pedicini, a Kansas City tailor, as a witness.

Pedicini said Schwimmer called him in July 1952 to the Muehlebach Hotel, where he measured Connelly for two suits costing $315. These suits were then sent to Connelly in Washington, he testified.

Later, in 1952, he again went to the Muehlebach and measured Connelly for a topcoat, the witness continued. He said the cost this time was only $110 since Schwimmer supplied the material.

Closing arguments were to begin today in the trial, in which the Government charges Connelly and Caudle conspired with Schwimmer to help Sachs avoid prosecution. Sachs pleaded guilty to income tax evasion in 1951 and was fined $40,000, but did not go to prison.

Judge Hulen will give his instructions to the jury of eight men and four women when prosecution and defense attorneys complete their final arguments. The case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow.

Mistrial Motion Fails.

A defense motion for a mistrial on the ground a government attorney had referred in the jury's presence to "a $5000 check" not in evidence was overruled today by Judge Hulen.

The judge reserved, until after the jury's verdict, a ruling on another defense motion seeking a judgment of acquittal.

Schwimmer, who was removed as a defendant in the trial after it started because of illness, was released today from Lutheran Hospital. His attorney, Morris A. Shenker, said Schwimmer, who now lives in Puerto Rico, was still too ill to travel and will remain for a time at a hotel here.

Judge Hulen has stated that the trial, which began May 7, has resolved itself chiefly into a question of motive by Connelly and Caudle, since there has been little dispute over facts.

The charge carries a maximum penalty, upon conviction, of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

FOUR U.S. STAMPS ISSUED FOR COIN GAMBLING DEVICES

Stamps for four coin-operated gambling devices in the city were issued today by the Internal Revenue Service, the first in the present fiscal year ending June 30.

Obtaining the stamps were F. W. Rosenbach, 3252 West Florissant avenue, one machine, operating since Feb. 1, $119; the Sidewalk Cafe, 2862 North Kingshighway, Reba Keiter, one machine, since April, $76; Vacation Recreation Parlor, 4103 Olive street, William Bruce, one machine, from Feb. 1, $119; William L. Reck, 5838 Southwest avenue, one machine, from Nov. 1, $203.

Each purchaser paid a small penalty for failure to obtain the stamp at the beginning of operations. Last year no stamps of that description were issued here.

EISENHOWER SHOWS STEADY IMPROVEMENT

from his bed. He sat in the chair for 15 minutes and then walked, again with but little support, back to bed.

During these exercises, the President had less discomfort than yesterday.

Mrs. Eisenhower Present.

The easy chair was placed 15 feet from Mr. Eisenhower's bed when he took his first walk yesterday, and he was supported firmly by two medical attendants. Mrs. Eisenhower was in the room both times.

Hagerty said the 6 degree of fever which the President had when he awoke this morning was "not normal but essentially normal for this stage of the game." The temperature reading was 99.2 degrees, compared with the normal 98.6. Physicians do not note anything less than a full degree above normal as a fever.

Because Mr. Eisenhower's temperature, blood pressure and pulse have been slightly higher at times in the last two days, the term "essentially normal" is used to describe them, Hagerty explained.

All the findings have been within limits considered normal for this stage of recovery, and there has been no indication of infection or complications, he added.

Adams drove to the hospital from the White House this morning to set up a temporary office in a third-floor lounge 90 feet from the President's suite.

Others on Duty.

He was accompanied by Col. Andrew Goodpaster, White House staff secretary; Mrs. Ann Whitman, the President's personal secretary; and Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary.

Adams told reporters the set-up in the lounge would be temporary and not "extensive." A communications system will be connected with the White House, he added.

The staff members met with the three doctors in the lounge this morning and formulated the decisions conveyed to Mr. Eisenhower by Adams, Hagerty said.

Beginning his second full day of recuperation from the emergency abdominal operation, the President apparently was gaining strength. Hospital bulletins indicated an "uneventful" recovery thus far.

The physicians said they planned to have the President walk again this afternoon, and there was a possibility of another short talk with Adams or others on official business.

No Word on Political Plans.

There was no word from the White House as to Mr. Eisenhower's political plans.

The morning hospital bulletin said: "The President had a comfortable night. It is contemplated to get him out of bed and let him walk a short distance in his room twice today."

"His temperature is 99.2, respiration 20, pulse 88, blood pressure 130 over 80. His general condition is excellent."

Assisted by two medical attendants, Mr. Eisenhower got out of bed yesterday morning and walked about 15 feet to an armchair. He sat for about 10 minutes, practicing deep breathing exercises, then walked back to bed.

The President's first steps came only 30 hours after he underwent major surgery to relieve a partial obstruction in the lower portion of the small intestine. The walking was part of the therapy outlined by his doctors.

First Official Business.

The President was consulted briefly on one small piece of official business for the first time yesterday. It concerned a decision by the White House staff to postpone a meeting originally scheduled for tomorrow.

Hagerty said he stepped into Mr. Eisenhower's room for a few minutes and informed him of the decision and the President agreed with it.

In answer to questions by the Post-Dispatch, Hagerty said the action yesterday could not be interpreted as "meaning Mr. Eisenhower had relinquished any of the powers of his office."

The President is expected to remain at the hospital for 15 days, with a four-to-six-week period of convalescence in prospect before he is able to be back at his desk on a full-time basis. He is expected to be able to play golf and swim again by mid-August.

Rules Out Politics.

As he did after the Chief Executive suffered a heart attack, Hagerty sought to rule out political discussion while Mr. Eisenhower is recovering.

Twice yesterday the press secretary said he would not talk about politics and specifically not about whether the current illness would change the President's plans to run for a second term.

Reminded that Gen. Heaton had said Saturday he saw no reason why the illness would have any effect on Mr. Eisenhower's ability to run again, Hagerty replied:

"I have just one thought in my mind, and that is to get the President out of the United States out of the hospital."

Hagerty repeated this later in the day and added: "I doubt if anybody is going to discuss any matters like that with him (the President)."

Two scheduled meetings have been postponed, Hagerty said. One was an appointment Mr. Eisenhower had made for today to discuss the foreign aid bill with Senate Democratic and Republican leaders.

The House today voted to cut $1,100,000,000 from the $4,900,000,000 requested by the President for military and economic aid to other nations in the next fiscal year.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is expected to begin working on the foreign aid measure Wednesday.

The conference with Senate leaders will be held before then, Hagerty said. He indicated he did not think Mr. Eisenhower would take part but did not say so specifically. He added that he did not know who would replace the President.

Conference Postponed.

Also postponed, Hagerty said, was a meeting between Mr. Eisenhower and a group of outstanding Americans to explore the possibility of a program for better understanding between the peoples of the world.

It was this people-to-people conference, originally set for tomorrow, that the White House staff decided to postpone, Hagerty said.

Asked by the Post-Dispatch if he anticipated there would be more staff decisions of this type in the next few days, Hagerty responded:

"Not at all, and as the doctors said, they all expected that the President could start seeing staff members tomorrow or Tuesday."

Postponement of the meeting was decided on while Mr. Eisenhower was in the operating room and was relayed to him "merely for his information, which we would normally do," Hagerty added.

Mr. Eisenhower's physicians estimated Saturday that he would be able to resume the "full duties" of his office in four to six weeks.

Effort to Lighten Work.

In his replies yesterday, Hagerty apparently was making a distinction between Mr. Eisenhower's duties and the powers of the presidency. Since he heart attack, there has been an effort to lighten his work load by intensifying staff work which has meant that he has been relieved of some routine duties.

Adams saw Mr. Eisenhower for a few minutes yesterday, but it was just to "say hello" and no Government business was discussed, Hagerty said.

The President's other visitors included Hagerty himself, who was in twice; Mrs. Eisenhower, who saw him "frequently" during the day, as did his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and Maj. and Mrs. John S. Eisenhower, the President's son and daughter-in-law, who celebrated their ninth wedding anniversary yesterday.

Hagerty was asked about Mr. Eisenhower's meeting with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, scheduled for July 7 to 10, and about the conference of Presidents of American Countries in Panama City June 24 to 26, which Mr. Eisenhower was to attend.

May Postpone Conferences.

Both of these are "under study" and it is not yet known whether Mr. Eisenhower will be able to take part, Hagerty said. He added that President Arias of Panama had said he would be willing to postpone the inter-American meeting for three weeks.

Medical bulletins issued yesterday reported that Mr. Eisenhower "spent a reasonably comfortable night" and "his condition remains excellent."

The final bulletin of the day yesterday said: "The progress of the President's condition continues uneventful. He has had a fairly comfortable day. He has napped at intervals throughout the day."

Hagerty said use of the word "uneventful" was one way of continuing normally, so we do not have to repeat that his temperature, blood pressure, pulse, etc., are normal.

Blood chemistry findings, such things as the chlorides, bicarbonates, sodiums and potassiums in his system, are normal, Hagerty added.

Fed Intravenously.

Mr. Eisenhower is still being fed intravenously and has received no food or liquids by mouth. Through his veins, he is given a solution of glucose, a sugar, and water.

The doctors said on Saturday that he would not be given liquids by mouth until the fourth day after the operation, presumably tomorrow.

Assisted by Master Sgt. J. W. Teaney and Sgt. First Class V. J. Jacobone, who supported him by his elbows, Mr. Eisenhower walked about 30 feet yesterday. He propped his feet on an ottoman while he sat in the chair.

His wife and Milton Eisenhower watched as he made his way across the room.

Hagerty said the walking, referred to technically as "early ambulation," was recommended as a way of improving the "general body tone."

He said Dr. Ravdin had told him that it was found that soldiers confined to bed for a week without exercise had lost much of the training and hardening achieved in a seven-month training period.

Tube to Stomach.

Mr. Eisenhower still has a tube running through his nose to his stomach. The tube, connected with a suction pump, drains saliva and secretions out of his stomach and intestinal tract to prevent nausea.

When he got up to walk around, the tube was disconnected from the suction pump, Hagerty said.

Purpose of the deep-breathing while seated in the chair was to make sure that the lower lobes of the lungs got proper exercise, he added.

Mr. Eisenhower's pulse rose 10 beats a minute after doing the deep breathing. But his pulse returned to its previous rate within two minutes after he lay down.

Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower did not complain that the walking caused him pain, but he was "not feeling comfortable" during the exercise.

He was to have walked a second time in the afternoon but decided against it. There was no significance to this, Mr. Eisenhower just said "not was enough" for the day, Hagerty said.

The President is receiving "appropriate" antibiotics and was given a "standard" dose of demerol, a sedative, three times during the night, Hagerty said. In answer to questions, Hagerty said the doctors had told him there was no reason to expect any infection, "and certainly not at this time."

Doctor Always Present.

A doctor was in Mr. Eisenhower's room at all times, and the chief consulting physicians saw him frequently, the press secretary said.

However, Dr. Paul Dudley White, the noted heart specialist who was recalled when the President suffered the attack of ileitis, has returned to Boston. The physicians have emphasized that the ileitis, an inflammation of the lower part of the small intestine, was not connected with Mr. Eisenhower's heart condition.

Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower was having some pain yesterday, but that the physicians expected he "would be in discomfort" the first two days. He has had no shock whatsoever, Hagerty added.

At various times yesterday, the President was in a "jack-knife" position, with the head of his bed elevated and his knees drawn up, for greater comfort.

The Chief Executive did not read any newspapers yesterday and none were read to him, the press secretary said. There was no radio in his room.

Hagerty said expressions of sympathy and good wishes had been received from "many heads of state and from the people of America and throughout the world" and that Mrs. Eisenhower had relayed some of them to her husband.

They are Joseph L. Robinson, 19, of the 1600 block of O'Fallon street, and Robert Shalk, 29, of the 4500 block of Newberry terrace, Negroes.

Seven persons with them were fined $10 each, for disorderly conduct in making "loud and sarcastic" remarks to the arresting officers. The passengers, all of St. Louis, were Ben Johnson, 17, of the 5000 block of Vernon avenue; James Shalk, 18, of the 4500 block of Newberry terrace; Henry Helton, 23, Miss Anne Gladney, 21, and Robert Clark, 22, all of the 3000 block of Montgomery street, and Misses Vonnice and Lillian Cannon, 18 and 17, of the 2800 block of Madison street. They also are Negroes.

After Robinson stopped, his auto rolled into the right rear fender of the police car. He was fined $40 for speeding, and released on bond on charges of reckless driving and malicious destruction of property. Shalk was fined $30 for speeding, and both were fined $10 for disorderly conduct.

In an effort to cut down on speeding in St. Louis county, Prosecuting Attorney Edward W. Garnholz has called a meeting for 2 p.m. next Friday and invited all of the county police chiefs, magistrates, constables, municipal judges and state highway patrolmen.

"The efforts in dealing with young people should be unified," he said. "The meeting will deal with drug racing, so called 'chicken' games, careless and reckless driving and drunk driving."

Garnholz said the meeting might produce some recommendations for new state laws, including a lower age limit for trial before a magistrate. Under present law an offender must be 17 before he can be tried. The prosecutor said he also felt that driver's licenses should be more easily revoked.

A meeting of Pine Lawn citizens to discuss problems of juvenile delinquency has been called for 8 o'clock tonight at the Pine Lawn Baptist Church. John Glynn, a Pine Lawn alderman, who called the meeting, said more should be done to occupy the time of youngsters between 5 and 10 p.m.

WOMAN DROWNS AFTER LEAPING FROM BRIDGE PIER

Was Mental Patient — Youth, Man Also Are Water Victims.

Three persons drowned yesterday in separate accidents in the St. Louis area.

They were:
A woman whose purse contained a note bearing the name of Frieda Cadler, 48 years old, a patient at Malcolm Bliss Hospital.

Ronald W. Barnes, 18, cook and baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnes, 4401 McCasland avenue, East St. Louis.

John Hazelwonder, 50, a commercial fisherman, Hardin, Ill. Witnesses told police the woman dove into the Mississippi river from a pier one block north of Eads Bridge and was swept under a barge.

Note Found in Purse.
A note was found in a purse under the bridge which said: "My name is Frieda Cadler. I am a patient at Malcolm Bliss Hospital." Hospital officials said a Frieda Cadler had been given a one-day pass at 10 a.m. yesterday to visit friends. They said she had been under treatment for schizophrenia for about two months and was to have been released in the near future.

The woman took off most of her clothes near the bridge at 10:30 a.m. and dove into the river, witnesses said. They said she swam a few feet and then screamed just before being swept under the barge.

Barnes drowned while swimming in Cedar Lake near Pevely, Mo., Jefferson county. Sheriff Leo Church of Jefferson county said a brother of Barnes, Raymond, was rescued by lifeguards when they heard cries for help. He was revived and taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis. He was reported suffering shock.

Lifeguards found Ronald's body on the bottom of the lake. Sheriff Church said. Artificial respiration was applied, and the Herculaneum Fire Department used a resuscitator in an effort to revive him.

Witnesses told Sheriff Church that the brothers were at the lake for a picnic and that Ronald was not a very good swimmer.

Boat Swamped.
Hazelwonder drowned in a boating accident in the Illinois river near Hardin. He was in a boat with its owner, Alfred Grest of Hardin, which was swamped by waves from another craft. Both men were thrown out, Grest said.

Grest said he attempted to aid Hazelwonder but was fought off. Grest said he swam back to the boat and then made another attempt to save Hazelwonder but could not find him. The body was recovered three hours later.

G.I. KILLS FERRY OPERATOR, STABS GIRL IN GERMANY

KREUZ-WERTHEIM, Germany, June 11 (AP)—German police said a 21-year-old American soldier ran amok on a ferry boat last night, knifing a German housemaid and then stabbing to death the ferry operator who went to her aid. The girl, Hildrun Wagner, was reported in a serious condition.

The soldier, whose name was withheld, was turned over to United States military police for questioning.

The German police said the girl was not with the soldier.

Love Leads to Own Arrest.
DES MOINES, Ia., June 11 (UP)—Louis Love walked into the police station and tossed a pair of dice on the desk. He had just lost $50 with the dice. Love said, and wondered if something could be wrong with them. The sergeant looked the dice over and assured Love there was nothing wrong with them. But he said there was something wrong with Love, who was arrested on the spot on an intoxication charge.

REVOLT LEADERS IN ARGENTINA BEING SOUGHT

summarily when Peron was overthrown last fall.

Tanco was reported a refugee in a Roman Catholic seminary at Rosario. He had been in hiding since the government several weeks ago ordered him to appear before a military court investigating unrest in army ranks.

Nation-wide indignation was aroused by the costly weekend rebellion, which reportedly may have claimed some 100 dead and wounded.

The rebels started their attack under the code name of "Plan T."

A force of some 1800 rebels attempted to seize an army arsenal at Lanus, a Buenos Aires suburb, but was repulsed after a 10-minute battle. An infantry battalion at the non-commissioned officers' school at Campo de Mayo, big army camp outside Buenos Aires, also revolted, but was immediately squelched.

At Rosario, too, the Government said, the rebels were quickly wiped out after armed civilians had succeeded only in seizing a radio station and broadcasting calls for the people to revolt under the slogan "long live Peron."

At daylight, navy bombers attacked the radio station at Santa Rosa where the rebels were still holding out. They already had been driven out of police headquarters and government house there. After a heavy bombing and strafing of the radio station ground troops poured in heavy machine-gun fire. The rebels "surrendered unconditionally," Adm. Rojas announced.

Aramburu told a clamoring victory crowd in the capital's central Plaza de Mayo that "sternest measures" would be enforced to curb troublemakers. He said his provisional regime would press ahead with its task of restoring democracy in Argentina preparing for election of a constitutional government.

Argentina's supreme military court went into emergency session last night to decide the fate of rebel prisoners. Two rebel army officers and 22 civilians were reported shot on the spot as the revolt was being quelled.

Later the government announced the execution of seven more officers and seven non-commissioned officers. They included Col. Oscar Lorenzo Cogorno, ringleader of the uprising by elements of the Seventh Infantry Regiment at La Plata; retired Col. Alberto Eduardo Cortines and retired Lt. Col. Ricardo Ibaseta.

Observers predicted the firing squad tactics applied against the rebels would be a brake on disgruntled elements who might have notions of further plotting against Aramburu's regime.

Even the Communists, who in the past have been accused of aiding the Peronistas in sabotage activities, denounced the weekend rebellion. A Communist party declaration called for a halt to "coups and counter coups" which it said could only lead to a state of violence and chaos.

Rojas declared Argentina's armed forces now stand stronger than ever against "Peronista and neo-Peronista" opposition.

Peron Has 'No Comment' on Revolt in Argentina.

BALBOA, Panama, June 11 (UP)—Former Argentine President Juan D. Peron, in bed with a cold, had "no comment" today on the unsuccessful counter-rebellion in Argentina.

An aid said he was following the reports closely.

It was believed Peron considered that any comment from him would embarrass the Panamanian government which has given him asylum here.

SWIMS 7 MILES TO ESCAPE RED CHINESE LABOR CAMP

TAIPEI, Formosa, June 11 (AP)—A young Chinese inmate of a Communist forced labor camp swam seven miles to a Nationalist island in Amoy bay, the Defense Ministry said today.

The ministry said three other prisoners who fled the Red mainland yesterday were missing and believed drowned.

The man who reached safety was Liang Shui-chang, a college graduate imprisoned on his native island of Kulangsu, west of Amoy. The ministry said he swam to the Nationalist-held island of Tatan, about two and a half miles below Amoy.

HONEYMOONERS BEGIN 3000-MILE SMALL BOAT TRIP

The New York Herald Tribune Post Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NYACK, N.Y., June 11 — A 3000-mile honeymoon cruise to Salonika, Greece, in a 28-foot sailboat began here yesterday afternoon as the Hara (Greek for "Joy") sailed down the Hudson river in a brisk breeze.

The swift little cutter, manned by Savas Georgiou, 37 years old, and his bride, Mrs. Mary Susan Perry Georgiou, was accompanied by a flotilla of pleasure craft. The couple hopes to make the first leg of the voyage to the Azores in 22 days.

Georgiou, a native of Salonika who came to the United States in 1952, is a portrait painter. His wife is a singer and voice teacher of Youngstown, N.Y., whom he married last Tuesday.

BI-STATE AGENCY STUDIES REVISED PARKING PLANS

ernment, general parking on the riverfront could be continued by construction of a garage under the memorial and the Third Street Highway, or by use of part of the memorial tract for an above-ground garage.

Easement Possible.
If an underground garage is the choice, an easement will be granted, provided that the parking project is financed without federal aid and does not interfere with the memorial. If the preference is for parking above ground, the Department of the Interior will try to work out a satisfactory arrangement and will recommend that a section of the memorial site be set aside for this use, which would require approval by Congress.

Underground construction is very costly, and this is the principal reason for modification of the Bi-State plan. The agency believes that financing might be obtained for construction of a smaller garage—the first section, to be followed by others if it proved successful—with the site free, the Government bearing the cost of excavation, and the garage being permitted to sell fuel, accessories and other services besides parking.

Underground garages in San Francisco and Los Angeles derive about 35 per cent of their revenue from sale of gasoline, oil and such services as greasing, washing and polishing. Kinsey reported after inspecting the California facilities.

Missouri law specifically bars operators of municipal garages from selling anything other than parking space, but Bi-State believes this restriction would not apply to a garage built by the agency.

Financing Methods.
"Underground construction costs are so high that, as a rule, earnings will not support the entire outlay, even when the site is free," Kinsey explained. "There are various ways of solving the problem of financing. In some cities, local merchants take junior securities and wait for their money. Revenue from parking meters may be pledged toward payment of bonds. Public funds may be invested in the project, and cities and other public agencies may make outright grants."

As reported in this series of Post-Dispatch articles on parking problems, St. Louis already is taking steps to utilize two of the financing methods mentioned by Kinsey.

Local business men have agreed to help the city build two downtown garages by investing $1,000,000 in bonds which will constitute a secondary obligation on the garage earnings. When the State Legislature meets in January, the city will renew its fight for authority to pledge future parking meter receipts for retirement of revenue bonds issued to finance construction of municipal parking facilities.

The Bi-State Agency was established in 1949 to co-ordinate development of an area of 3559 square miles in Missouri and Illinois. It has built a $1,500,000 river, rail and highway terminal on the Chain of Rocks canal, and has made arrangements to buy the McKinley Bridge from a syndicate of railroads for $13,500,000.

Bi-State cannot borrow money for its projects, the only financing available to the agency being revenue bonds. But it can accept aid from the city, the Federal Government or other sources.

Another Obstacle.
Another obstacle to development of the underground garage is an agreement by the Federal Government to permit construction of a low deck for the Third Street Highway whenever through traffic comprises 50 per cent of the vehicles using the artery. This roadway would split the area designated for the underground garage. However, the Missouri Highway Department has indicated that the provision for another traffic level would be dropped if it stood in the way of a definite proposal to build a garage.

In its original plan, Bi-State proposed a garage extending under the Third Street Highway from Washington avenue to Market street, and cutting under the open block just east of the Old Courthouse. There were to be two and three parking levels on the sloping site, with a moving sidewalk underground or cars in a tunnel to carry pedestrians under Olive street as far west as Eighth street. The tunnel would have show windows rented to merchants.

Details of the modified plan have not been completed.

Pointing out that it would be much cheaper to build an underground garage when the memorial tract is being graded and the railroad tunnel is being constructed than later, the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial Association last week appointed a committee to explore all the possibilities of underground parking.

Congress had appropriated $2,640,000 for a start on the memorial, and work will begin as soon as the National Park Service comes to terms with the St. Louis railroads on sharing the cost of the tunnel.

WASHINGTON AVE. MANSION OF 1870S IS BEING RAZED
A three-story mansion at 2710 Washington avenue, a relic of prosperous times in the 1870s, is now being razed. The home, in a French style of architecture with a mansard roof, was built by Jules Vallee, a millionaire who was president of the Iron Mountain Co., mining claims near Ironton, Mo.

Vallee was born in Ste. Genevieve, where his grandfather, Francis Vallee, had been fort commandant under both French and Spanish rule of the Louisiana territory. He died in 1872.

In recent years the building has been used as an office for a tire company, which has ordered the razing. The cleared ground will be used for parking facilities. The tire firm occupies another building on the tract.

SUPREME COURT LIMITS FIRINGS AS SECURITY RISKS

Constitution's guarantee that civilians accused of crimes are entitled to trial by civilian courts.

However, Clark's opinion in the Smith case today said the majority found no constitutional defect in the military code of justice providing for civilian trials abroad. He added:

"Furthermore, since under the principle of international law each nation has jurisdiction of the offenses committed within its own territory, the essential choice involved here is between an American and a foreign trial."

The court rejected a Government complaint that E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co. illegally monopolized the cellophane business.

Justice Reed delivered the 4-3 decision, joined by Justices Frankfurter, Burton and Minton. Chief Justice Warren wrote a dissenting opinion concurring in by Justices Douglas and Black. Justices Clark and Harlan took no part in the case.

Lower Court Upheld.
The decision upheld a ruling by United States District Judge Paul Leahy of Wilmington, Del., clearing the company of creating and maintaining a monopoly.

Appealing directly to the Supreme Court, the Justice Department insisted Du Pont had power to exclude cellophane competition and to control prices, and had achieved that power "by use of means which were illegal and exclusionary."

Reed's 28-page majority opinion ended with the admonition that:

"It seems to us that Du Pont should not be found to monopolize cellophane when that product has the competition and interchangeability with other wrappings that this record shows."

Warren, speaking for himself, Black and Douglas, said the "majority virtually emasculate" the anti-monopoly provision of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The dissenters wanted to reverse the Delaware district judge and send the proceeding back there "with directions to determine the relief which should be granted against Du Pont."

16-Month Hearing.
The Government's anti-trust suit against Du Pont was filed in 1947. The trial before Judge Leahy lasted almost 16 months. On Dec. 14, 1953 he dismissed the Government's complaint and issued a 381-page opinion which said the facts destroy the charges. Leahy made 854 findings of fact and commented that Du Pont should not be punished for its success in the cellophane business.

In other actions, the tribunal: Rejected 5-to-4 a protest by George B. Parr, stormy south Texas political boss, against being put on trial in United States District Court in Austin on income tax evasion charges. Parr was first indicted Nov. 15, 1954, in Corpus Christi. His lawyers asserted he could not get a fair trial and the case was transferred to Laredo. Later the Government obtained a new indictment in Austin leading to the appeal acted on today. Parr called the government maneuvers "unique and unprecedented." The majority said Parr can raise the issue again after his trial if he desires.

Ruling on Royalty Rights.
Decided unanimously that an illegitimate son of the late composer George G. (Buddy) DeSylva, is entitled to royalty rights. DeSylva's widow, Marie, had sought sole control over renewal of copyrights.

Delivered two split opinions broadening the federal employers' liability act to cover additional railroad workers, including women file clerks. In one case, decided 7-to-2, the tribunal held that railroad employees injured in the manufacture of new cars and car wheels and in the construction of a new freight yard may sue for damages under the law. In a separate case decided 5-to-4 the court ruled the act applied to a woman file clerk injured while working for the Pennsylvania Railroad in its Thirty-second street building in Philadelphia.

Ruled, in a 5-to-2 decision, that the Government may use secret evidence in rejecting an alien's application for suspension of deportation. The case concerned Cecil Reginald Jay, native of England, who was ordered deported in 1952 for membership in the Communist party after his entry to this country in 1921.

EUREKA MAN, 78, BEATEN, ROBBED; 3 SUSPECTS HELD

2 Arrested in Fields
Nearby After Auto
Hits Bridge Abutment—$100 Missing.

Two men were arrested in fields near Eureka today following the beating and robbing of William Lutterman, 78 years old, a harness and shoe repairman, in his shop in Eureka.

Police arrested two youths who said they were Floyd Julian, 18, and Samuel Gaddis, 21, both of Chicago, and booked them suspected of armed robbery. Lutterman reported a wallet containing about $100 was taken.

They were apprehended within 15 minutes after the robbery. The automobile in which the robbers fled from the shop struck a bridge abutment at Central and Augustine roads, south of Eureka.

Witnesses said the accident occurred because one of the robbers had to stand on the running board of the car and use his hands to insure that the car's engine received a flow of gasoline. The hood of the machine was up, blocking the view of the road.

Police reported a third person was involved in the robbery and spent two hours searching the vicinity for him. A private plane, seven county police cars and four state highway patrol cars were called in before the search was abandoned. A suspect was later arrested at the intersection of Lindbergh boulevard and U.S. Highway 66.

Police also searched the area with the two suspects, trying to locate the wallet and money, which was not on the pair when they were arrested. They were not successful.

Lutterman, who suffered a head injury, was taken to St. Louis County Hospital. He told authorities he was in his shop about 8 a.m. when the robbers entered and demanded money. He gave them the wallet.

The robbers then struck him on the head, tied his arms and shoved him under a bed in living quarters behind his shop.

10 CHILDREN, TWO ADULTS KILLED IN THEATER PANIC

CUERNABACA, Mexico, June 11 (AP)—A false alarm set off a stampede during a movie matinee yesterday and 12 persons—10 of them children—were killed in the crush.

Nine other persons, including two children, were seriously injured. The audience crowding the theater jammed toward the exits after someone shouted, "the building is falling in." Two years ago a section of the building above the movie auditorium caved in.

WRECKAGE OF PRIVATE PLANE WITH FIVE ABOARD IS SIGHTED

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, June 11 (AP)—Wreckage of a private plane, tentatively identified as one which disappeared Friday with three men and two women aboard, was sighted today in the Chugach mountains, east of here, the Air Force reported.

Aboard the missing plane were Capt. Elbert G. Head, the pilot; Mrs. J. C. Head, believed to be his mother; George Hoque and W. K. Tennerell from Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. W. Hess, Dallas, Tex., wife of a master sergeant stationed at Elmendorf field.

The plane took off from Northway, near the Canadian border, Friday noon for Anchorage. It reported in by radio when it was at 5000 feet and near the International airport here. Nothing further was heard from it.

$1,600,000,000 SPENT ON FOREIGN TRAVEL IN 1955

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—The Department of Commerce reported yesterday Americans spent more than $1,600,000,000 last year on foreign travel. This was an increase of more than $200,000,000 over 1954 and the department said a further substantial rise is expected in 1956.

Americans have been spending more on foreign travel since wartime days. The total for last year included $200,000,000 in fares paid to United States airlines and shipping companies for non-domestic travel. About $200,000,000 was paid to foreign lines.

EXHAUSTIVE CLINICAL TESTS PROVE
DR. EDWARDS' OLIVE TABLETS 58%
MORE EFFECTIVE THAN OTHER LAXATIVES!

261 cases tested prove OLIVE TABLETS give you Nature's ideal regularity!

Medical evidence finally promises you thorough, safe, natural relief from that miserable, sickening feeling of irregularity! Leading doctors in a prominent medical center have just finished testing 7 popular, well-known laxatives. These are the facts based on clinical records of 261 patients, from 11 to 87 years old, suffering from acute and chronic constipation:

DR. EDWARDS' OLIVE TABLETS, made from pure-vegetable drugs and plant herbs, gave thorough, gentle, effective results in 9 out of 10 cases! OLIVE TABLETS were 58% more effective—with less unpleasant effects—than all the other laxatives tested!

The doctors found, too, that OLIVE TABLETS function naturally, work only on digested food in the lower bowel, without causing undue weakness or removing nourishment that your body needs. They're unsurpassed as a laxative for temporary constipation. Sold by all druggists.

For a reprint of this doctors' report, published in "Clinical Medicine," write: The Olive Tablet Company, Box 277, Station A, Columbus 1, Ohio.

Adenauer Urges West to Retain Its Vigilance in Face of Current Friendly Overtures From Russia

West German Chancellor Calls Tactics
'More Dangerous Than Former Aggressive Conduct' of Kremlin — Says Leaders Are Not Prepared to Ease Tension.

By HORST BUCHHOLZ

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 11 (AP).

WEST GERMAN Chancellor Adenauer called on the West today not to relax "even for one moment" its vigilance in the face of current friendly talk from Russia.

Adenauer called the present tactics "more dangerous than the former aggressive conduct" of the Kremlin.

He said the men in the Kremlin "are still not prepared to remove the main causes of the tension of the world."

Adenauer's remarks were in an address at a luncheon given in his honor by the board of governors of Yale University.

Earlier in the day, the statesman received an honorary degree of doctor of laws during Yale University commencement exercises.

Adenauer, on a week's visit to this country, arrived here by auto from Greenwich, Conn., last night. He was guest of honor at a private formal dinner given by Yale President A. Whitney Griswold and spent the night at Griswold's residence.

In his luncheon speech, the Chancellor said:

"Throughout the world, the Soviets aggravate existing conflicts and endeavor to undermine the West's position in an unscrupulous manner. Above all they want to smash first the mighty protective shield of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to drive the United States from Europe so that Europe will fall like a ripe fruit into the Soviet lap."

Impression Acknowledged.

The German leader asserted it is undeniable that the present Russian leaders have made an impression on some people by pushing Stalin from his throne — "after his death, it is to be noted."

But, he added, there are no signs to indicate the disavowal of Stalinism and the acceptance of those spiritual principles which are the foundations of the free world.

"Instead," Adenauer declared, "there are only new forms and methods used by the Russian leadership in the Kremlin, in order to reach the old Bolshevik objectives with fewer sacrifices."

Citing one problem close to himself, the Chancellor stated that the Russians refused to make any real concessions on the German issue.

"In fact," he said, "Mr. (Nikita) Khrushchev expressed himself more ruthlessly to French Premier Mollet and French Foreign Minister (Christian) Pineau during their visit to Moscow when he stated that he would rather have 17,000,000 on his side than a reunited, neutral Germany. Can you think of a more emphatic endorsement of brute force?"

Adenauer said it was undeniable that recently the cohesion of the West had weakened and that "there are clear indications of a lack of co-ordination in its foreign policy." He added that NATO—further developed—is the proper instrument with which to tackle the new task of preventing Soviet moves to take advantage of weakness of the West.

"The utmost vigilance and justified distrust toward the policy of the Soviet Union," he declared, "does not, however, exclude the necessity for the West to be ready at all times to re-examine its policy to make sure it corresponds to developments in world policy."

"Our Duty to Watch."

"It is our duty to watch constantly for indications of a genuine change of mind and a genuine readiness for understanding on the part of the countries behind the Iron Curtain."

Regarding West Germany's attitude toward the West, it is clear, he said, "that we shall stand by the obligation to defend the German contribution to the defense of the free world."

Adenauer said the announcement of a reduction of the Soviet armed forces "will have no repercussions on our defense effort. Germany wants to be and will remain a reliable partner of the West."

The German leader also spoke of the gratitude the nation felt for the three-billion-dollar United States aid program to West Germany and West Berlin, and declared that as a token of that gratitude the German federal government has decided to award this year 75 full scholarships to American students for a year of study in a university in West Germany or West Berlin.

Adenauer said Germany wants to express itself "not in an inanimate monument, but in an exchange of persons and living ideas."

Receiving honorary doctor of laws degrees along with Adenauer were Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, United States Army Chief of Staff, and Irving S. Olds, former chairman of United States Steel Corp.

The Adenauer citation honored him for leading his country again to an historic position in the civilization of the West.

Taylor was cited for studies "in philosophy and foreign languages," while Olds was hailed as a man whose "counsel and character have benefited 'law, industry, education and the arts.'"

TRUMAN in EUROPE

Atmosphere of Peace, Economic Recovery Allow Leaders to Turn to Regional Problems

Impressed by Bonn's Strong Man -- Visits Beethoven's Home.

By HARRY S. TRUMAN
Thirty-third President of the United States.
(Copyright, 1956.)

PARIS, June 11.

THE atmosphere of peace is strong in Western Europe. The leaders in Europe with whom I have talked so far now have the feeling that they have the time that will be necessary to work out their own regional problems. A few years ago many feared there would not be time.

Chancellor Adenauer, of the federal republic of Germany, is one of the truly impressive West European leaders. He believes that there is time now to work out the problems of the free community. I agree.

The fact that a third world war has been avoided, despite a decade of terrible tension, is a very good sign. The longer we can go without plunging into war, the easier it ought to be for us to keep out of it.

There must be a diplomatic approach to our problems through the United Nations. That organization is the hope for the salvation of the people of the world. Everybody I have talked to agrees with that.

Danger has not been eliminated, of course. We must be like the Puritans in New England in the early days. They went to church, but they kept their powder dry.

We must be fully prepared and be as patient and calm as we can be and try to work out the difficulties on a peaceful basis.

In fact, I think we have got to do that.

We must realize that conditions change radically all the time and that we must be ready and able to meet those changes. So far, I think the changes have been for the better and there is now a more peaceful atmosphere than there was in the years right after the war.

This atmosphere has permitted people of Europe and their leaders to have hope for better things.

Chancellor Adenauer told me in his office in Bonn how happy he was that France and Germany finally had reached an agreement on the Saarland, which has been a point of friction between them for generations. He stressed that the Saar government also concurred in the agreement.

This, Mr. Adenauer said, meant that the prospect of the integration of a Free Europe would be improved.

Patience Stressed.

He said the key word in the effort to integrate Europe is "patience." He said we couldn't do everything today, or tomorrow, but that if we had the right attitude, and the right objectives in mind, we eventually would reach a settlement that would make Europe a true community in freedom.

The Chancellor told me many other things which I am not at liberty to disclose.

He is a most impressive man and to my mind one of the select few who will be described by history as the great statesmen of Western Europe in the troubled postwar years.

I am free to sketch some of his ideas and some of the things he told me in a formal meeting at his office in the morning, at lunch and then at dinner.

He assured me that he wanted to be recognized as one of the best friends that the United States has.

He already has done wonderful work for the federal republic.

But he is most anxious for

Former President HARRY TRUMAN quaffing glass of Austrian beer in refreshment break at an inn while on tour of Salzburg last Monday. He later visited the nearby birthplace of Mozart and played on the famed composer's piano.

Surprised as He Sees General Whom He Recommended for West Point.

as a briar. It always has been. When you talk with him he frequently jolts you with a bit of penetrating humor which emphasizes how alert and vigorous he is.

Physically, too, he is strong and vital. I am told that he climbs 70 steps up to his home each day.

I hope he lasts a long time, and I am sure he will.

Chancellor Adenauer, of course, would be the last to claim he is an indispensable man. He has too much faith in his own country and people for that.

Obviously, he has some very able people around him. The Germans always have produced able men at the top. Sometimes they went in the wrong direction, but they have had the capable men to do the work.

Reconstruction Seen.

I could see that in the job they have done to reconstruct Germany. In 1945 I visited Bavaria and other parts of Germany and saw the complete destruction visited on such cities as Munich and Frankfurt in the war. Recovery, particularly in Frankfurt, has been impressive.

In 1945 I went all over Frankfurt and it was almost totally destroyed. Now it seems to have been almost completely rebuilt. Most of the wrecked buildings in Munich have been destroyed. Along the railroad between Munich and Bonn, a line that runs along the industrialized Rhine for a good long way, there was evidence of destruction but far more evidence of reconstruction.

The impression I have had generally so far in my travels through Italy, Austria and Germany is that Europe has made wonderful economic recovery from the war as well as a fine psychological and political recovery.

The Europeans think most about their economic recovery, however, and talk about it.

In every capital and major city we visited the leaders and people gave credit to the Marshall Plan and to Point Four as the two things that permitted them to recover economically. So far as I have seen, they are right.

Me that these two projects have been well worth while. I

Diplomats Are Vexed, Puzzled By American Neutrality Views

Eisenhower, Nixon and Dulles Run Gamut of Possible Approaches on Topic as They Try to Clarify Policy.

By DANA ADAMS SCHMIDT

(Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, June 11.

PART OF WASHINGTON'S diplomatic community was vexed and all of it puzzled over the weekend by the United States attitude toward neutrality.

For the three highest officials of the Administration—President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles—had in the course of four days run the gamut of possible views on the subject.

On Wednesday the President had shocked some of the United States' allies by emphasizing the risks a nation takes when it enters into an alliance. On Saturday Dulles shocked the neutrals by declaring that neutrality was "immoral."

Some of the diplomats thought they understood what the Administration was driving at. They understood that, after long and assiduously building a world-wide network of military alliances the Administration had begun to appreciate the limitations of these combinations as means of halting the advance of Communism.

New Understanding.

At the same time they thought the Administration was developing a new understanding of the legitimacy of the neutral position taken by nations that decline to enter into collective security arrangements with the United States, and of the possible usefulness of the neutrals to this country.

The diplomats thought also that the changing United States attitude was part of gradual adjustment to the implications of the hydrogen bomb—an adjustment the Soviet Union had made much more quickly.

That is, if the hydrogen bomb has made all-out war unthinkable—as the Big Four heads of state seemed to agree at Geneva last July—then East-West conflict would have to be carried on mainly economic and ideological means.

Here is the sequence of statements:

1. At his press conference on Wednesday the President recalled that for about 150 years of its existence the United States was neutral toward wars in Europe. He said this did not mean the United States was neutral toward right and wrong any more than the neutrality of some new nations today means such indifference.

He went on to note that while public opinion is outraged by any attack on a neutral country, "if it has announced its military association with an-

It explained that the President of course believes in collective security; that he did not mean to suggest that alliances with the United States were dangerous; that he meant only to emphasize the dangers of alliance with the Soviet bloc.

2. In answer to the ensuing chorus of dismay from the United States' closest allies, including West Germany and Pakistan, the White House on Thursday issued a statement explaining the President had not meant exactly what he had said.

It explained that the President of course believes in collective security; that he did not mean to suggest that alliances with the United States were dangerous; that he meant only to emphasize the dangers of alliance with the Soviet bloc.

3. The same evening Vice President Nixon followed the President's original thoughts in a speech explaining that uncommitted nations want time for economic development and "are not going to be frightened into alliances with the West by military power, nor can their allegiance be purchased by dollars."

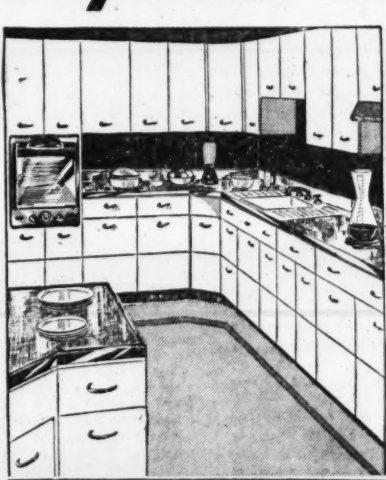

4. Finally, on Saturday, Secretary Dulles, in a commencement address at Iowa State College, developed the White House explanation to a point which some observers thought contradicted the President.

Extolling the United States' network of alliances with 42 countries, he declared that these abolish the principle of neutrality which "pretends that a nation can best gain safety for itself by being indifferent to the fate of others."

This has increasingly become an obsolete conception," he said, and, except under very exceptional circumstances, it is an "immoral and short-sighted conception."

POUJADE ON TRIAL FOR INCITING TAX STRIKE IN FRANCE

PARIS, June 11 (AP)—Pierre Poujade and six members of the executive committee of his Union for the Defense of Shopkeepers and Tradesmen went on trial here today on charges that they incited people to refuse to pay their taxes.

Strong police forces were on hand to quell any possible demonstration. None occurred. Forty witnesses are expected to be called in the trial, which is scheduled to last three days.

In January 1955, the charge said, Poujade's organization voted a motion calling for "a total strike of taxpayers." The motion was supported, however, after the government issued decrees which met some of the Poujadists' demands. In September, the general congress of the U.D.C.A. voted a motion calling on shopkeepers and tradesmen to send back their tax bills to collectors with a request for reduction of their taxation and at the same time to withdraw all money from their bank accounts.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Judge on Drivers at 16

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Your editorial on stopping drag racers shows a deep and needed concern for a solution to this problem. There is one part of the editorial, however, I would like to clarify.
Under present law the only punishment that can be given a 16-year-old driver is a jail sentence in the form of a term in reform school.
In serious cases where confinement is necessary as a last resort, the sentence should be served in the form of reform school which reforms boys rather than makes criminals.
Also under present law the juvenile court can do nothing to the boy until he has become a serious enough problem to be declared "delinquent." I have found that 17- and 18-year-olds, working with the boy and his parents, and even giving a stiff fine where the boy must work to pay the fine, has kept many from becoming delinquents.
Young boys and girls look forward to their sixteenth birthday, and their using the family car for dates and ball games is a fundamental part of American life. I would not want to see this changed as a result of a very small percentage of young drivers who are "hot rods" in the worst sense of the word.
I feel that if 16-year-olds are to accept this driving privilege, they must accept also the serious responsibility which goes with it and stand trial in traffic courts with other motorists.
If the juvenile court can handle all traffic cases from 96 municipalities and the unincorporated areas, as well as the delinquent cases, it would handle them in a more efficient manner, then that court should be given power to treat the 16-year-olds as other motorists. Otherwise, that power should be given to the municipal courts.
Drivers who insist on endangering the lives of others should be taken from behind the steering wheel. There is no person in Missouri, however, who can mark, mark, mark, suspend or revoke, the driver's license of a 16-year-old.
As a practical matter the 16-year-old driver is in many ways immune from the law. Such immunity does not encourage him to drive safely.
JUDGE EDWARD T. WRIGHT,
Brentwood Police Court.

A Cardinal Fan

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It makes my blood boil to read some of these letters and listen to the diatribes who think everything Frank Lane has done is wrong.
I have also noticed that the ones who are doing the most complaining are the same people who last year, when we ended up in seventh place, wouldn't think of attending the games because they were much too bored with watching a losing ball team.
What do these complainers really want other than to hear themselves talk, of course?
I, for one, would like to praise August Busch, Frank Lane and Fred Hutchinson for the wonderful job they have done. And this may come as a shock to a Mr. W. C. Vroman who wrote in recently, but I even like Harry Carey—and my one ambition is some day, when Harry and Joe can make it, to take over the broadcast for a game. Then, and only then, will I really have something to complain about.
MRS. BERNICE McDERMOTT.

Fine Material Poorly Used

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The editorial "Sharks' Teeth to Rich-Dirt," commending Jim Keefe and the Missouri Conservation Commission, pays a compliment which is well earned.
Few state conservation agencies are doing as fine a job as Missouri's in making available information designed for all educational levels.
However, a paradox exists. Few state educational departments are as backward as Missouri's in recognizing resource management as a part of the educational program at all levels of learning.
Many states have recognized this need. Teachers in some states must have credits in conservation courses to obtain a certificate. Textbooks are recommended which tell the conservation story. At the secondary and college level, conservation courses are offered.
In Missouri, the fine texts, teacher manuals and handbooks prepared by the commission are used all too little in the schools. The gap between educators and the Conservation Commission is wide and must be closed if these publications are to reach their potential as a tool in teaching wise resource use.
JAMES F. COMFORT,
Webster Groves.

Criticizing Criticisms

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Appropos your editorial "Punk Show,"
Often have I pondered as I read some incisive derogatory criticism of a current production, written by your learned Myles Standish or by the more formidable Nathan, Atkinson, Kerr, et al (more formidable because they function in New York, the usual point of play origin).
And this was the substance of my thought: Why is willful destruction of physical property a crime, but verbal devastation—often, it seems, individualistic—is not? Is it not a sometimes quarter-million-dollar investment in intangibles a Constitution-protected right?
Free speech is perhaps the life-giving principle of our democracy. Some of its aspects, it is not a crime of delivering a lethal blow to some of the democracy's tenants.
L. J. HERSBY.

Mr. Dulles on Neutrality

Secretary Dulles in his address at Ames completed the job of revising and extending President Eisenhower's remarks on neutrality. A great many Americans—and certainly a great many puzzled non-Americans—will still prefer the President's original view, as he expressed it at last week's news conference. Mr. Eisenhower then showed a sympathetic understanding of those nations which hesitate to line up as military allies of either the Soviet Union or the United States, and said that this attitude need not necessarily be to American disadvantage in all cases.

Almost immediately the White House, evidently on Mr. Dulles's prompting, put out a "clarification" which reduced the force of this remark. Then Mr. Dulles, in a speech bearing advance Administration endorsement, told an Iowa State College commencement audience that neutrality has become increasingly obsolete and, except in unusual circumstances, is "immoral and shortsighted."

The trouble with this viewpoint—which Mr. Dulles apparently holds so dear that he will publicly contradict the President in order to get it across—is that it takes no account of a basic fact of the modern world.

This fact is that when great powers possess the power of vast destruction through hydrogen bombs, some smaller powers which do not possess H-bombs—especially those in the area of possible conflict—are bound to do all they can to stay out of a war in which they might be helpless victims. The great powers which possess H-bombs have some hope of deterring an attack on themselves. Small powers without H-bombs lack the retaliatory power to deter attack.

This is a fact of life which is not likely to be changed by moralistic lectures from the United States. Indeed, in some cases pressure against neutrality can work directly to our disadvantage.

A nation situated as is Yugoslavia, for instance, if forced to choose between military allies might well choose the other side rather than ours.

Is it not much more to our interest to keep such a country out of the Soviet camp than to insist that it join up with the West?

Are we not more likely to gain friends and influence everywhere by understanding the particular viewpoints of particular nations, instead of preaching that they are "immoral" unless they join a military alliance?

Stepping Out

A patent for a new kind of footwear for men tentatively called the Disembodied Sole has been taken out by Sigurd Trammell, of Rochester, N.Y. This footwear is a shoe without uppers, sides, laces, or, in fact, anything but soles. The soles are held to the feet by vacuum cups.

By a happy coincidence there appears at about the same time an advertisement of a woman's sandal described as being a summer shadow "from a collection of elegant peau de sole." The sole is as thin as a shadow of a former self—the strap as thin as a shadow of the sole. The heel, a relatively robust affair, tapers from about the size of a toothpick at the base to about the size of a cigarette at the top. It might be called, say, the Spirituelle She.

That would be a fitting pair, the Disembodied Sole and the Spirituelle She. It would be interesting to see them, two summer shadows, one of these fine evenings, stepping out together, and the right word for it does seem to be out.

For Talks With Morocco

Since France has conceded virtual independence to Morocco, it is natural that the Rabat government should desire to discuss American bases in the country with Washington. And it would be a contribution to international good will—and perhaps to the pacification of North Africa—for the United States to enter such talks.

There have been no indications that Morocco wants this government to give up these defense establishments. The Moroccan foreign minister has denied a report that his government is planning to ask an annual rental of $430,000,000, the equivalent of the total American investment in the bases. He says that responsible authorities have not even considered the charging of rent, let alone fixing its amount.

On the theory that bases contribute as much to the security of the country in which they are located as to that of the United States, Washington has opposed rents. Foreign aid contributions, however, may be regarded as a substitute. Washington wants France to tell Morocco the terms worked out in 1950 for establishment of the bases. This would be a friendly gesture suggesting that France has not been left completely in the cold.

If the French, for some inscrutable motive, choose not to pass the 1950 terms to Morocco, the State Department can communicate them readily enough. Good relations with the government in control are more important than assuaging the government which has given up that control. But since the bases also contribute to French security, and since France can hardly desire needless friction with a government which it hopes to keep within its orbit, Paris surely will make possible good will on all sides.

The Last of the Three R's

The University of Illinois a few months ago decided to drop remedial courses in basic English because it did not have time to teach hundreds of college students what primary and secondary schools should have taught them. Now the focus is on mathematics. A survey sponsored by the Carnegie Foundation finds that the teaching of mathematics in this country is in a deplorable state.

Princeton University's Educational Testing Service studied 60 classrooms in primary and secondary schools in five states. This is what it found:

Of 60 mathematics teachers, only 10 were fully competent; the 50 others were "confused."

Most of the teachers do not like mathematics and teach it only under compulsion.

Most of the students, naturally, also do not like mathematics and are hostile to learning it.

In fact, the testing service discovered in its year-long research that a good many teachers not only do not know their subject and are not able to interest their students in it, but also are barely able to keep ahead of the students. The conclusion is that mathematics is one of the poorest taught subjects below the college level.

These are especially serious findings at a time of increasing demand for scientists, engineers and technicians who need the fullest understanding of mathematics.

While the Princeton study lays much of the fault with the contemporary teacher, it seems probable that blame also lies with his teacher.

with teaching methods and with the general educational system and the public's attitude toward it. In any case the research men recommend that the whole mathematics curriculum be brought up to date.

But perhaps the main recommendation of the survey is the creation of a Remedial Mathematics Course for Teachers of Mathematics. We have now come full circle. Remedial courses used to be for pupils.

The President's Good Progress

All the country is both greatly pleased and deeply relieved that the President is making such rapid progress toward recovery from his unexpected major abdominal surgery. The news that he was encouraged by his doctors to take his first steps within 30 hours of his operation at Walter Reed Hospital is indeed most reassuring.

At the same time there is an underlying feeling, we believe, to the effect that there is no need whatever for hurrying Mr. Eisenhower unduly for what may seem to be the sake of outward appearances. While modern surgical techniques and new post-operative practices are working wonders, still major surgery is major surgery and one result is a shock to the system, particularly at the age of 63.

Already there is a campaign on to keep the President before the public as a certain candidate to succeed himself in the White House. Such pressure is definitely out of place at this time. Inevitably Mr. Eisenhower must review his earlier decision to make himself available.

The question now is: How much of the normal duties and responsibilities of the presidency will he be able to discharge in the days immediately ahead? As he works out the answer to this truly pressing matter, perhaps he will find help in reaching a conclusion on the long-term question.

After the President's heart attack, the din for him to run again did not await the passage of an interval which showed proper consideration for him not only as the Chief Executive of the United States but also as a dangerously ill human being. Surely he will be shown more consideration this time.

Handling School Insurance Fees

After wasted weeks of wrangling over the handling of public school insurance, the School Board evidently has decided to do what it ought to have done right from the start: Stick to its proper function of policy making and not meddle in day-to-day administration.

What made the insurance question a matter of such burning debate was the commissions involved, about $15,000 a year. One member of the Board—Charles J. Dyer—conceived a cozy little scheme under which he was able to cut in several St. Louis politicians for modest pieces of this business. Naturally they got the commissions, too.

Even after Mr. Dyer's deal became public knowledge strong efforts were made in the Board to retain the substance of his arrangement. If not the form. A Board employee, for example, was to be assigned the job of administering the insurance program "with the advice and counsel" of the Board president and vice president. This was patently a device to encourage administrative meddling by policy makers with an eye on the commissions.

Now, however, the Board seems ready to put the insurance program into the hands of one of its paid officers to operate "with regard only to the best interests of the school system." If Mr. Dyer and some of his colleagues keep out of the insurance office everything ought to work out all right.

Showdown on Hell's Canyon

The horse trade which has made it likely that the bill for a federal dam at Hell's Canyon can be brought out of committee will, if successful, present a real challenge to the Democratic majority in Congress. Involved here is a public power issue which is a real liability to the Republican party. It began with a default of responsibility by former Secretary of Interior McKay, who turned the No. 1 hydroelectric power site in the United States over to private interests.

Mr. McKay's arguments that the Government could not afford the cost, and that the Idaho Power Co. could do the job faster, did not hold water, then, and they hold a lot less water now. The Pacific Northwest, short on electric power, wants the Hell's Canyon site developed for the maximum power. The federal project alone would do that—Idaho Power would develop a bare minimum.

Democrats have been merrily castigating Republicans for the Hell's Canyon giveaway. If the federal dam bill finally reaches the floor, as now seems likely, the Democratic majority in the House will either need to put up the votes necessary for its passage, or shut up about the giveaway. Which is it going to be?

Work for St. Louis County

Now that revision of St. Louis's 42-year-old City Charter is assured, it is time to tackle the shortcomings of the County Charter. While that instrument is only six years old, it is not nearly so good as it could or should be.

The difficulty is the result of a deliberate policy on the part of the freeholders who framed the charter. At the time of their deliberations the county was plagued by an obsolescent type of rural government whose powers and procedures were spelled out in several hundred state statutes. The county had no charter and consequently it lacked home rule.

The leading members of the Charter Commission felt that nothing in their proposal ought to arouse the resentment of the county political organizations—that the thing to do was to draw an instrument that the people would approve, even if it fell short of the ideal. After all, so they argued, there will be plenty of time later to improve the charter by amendment. In our opinion that time has arrived.

All of the county's major administrative offices are run by elected officials. They include the Assessor, Circuit Clerk, Collector, Constables, Coroner, County Clerk, Highway Engineer, Prosecuting Attorney, Public Administrator, Recorder of Deeds, Sheriff, Superintendent of Schools and Treasurer.

In effect each is an independent political prince. Neither Supervisor Matthews nor the County Council has jurisdiction over the internal operations of these departments except indirectly through their budgets. Once the elected officials get their money they can run things pretty much as they please.

This is not the most efficient or economical governmental organization. It provides too many bosses, too many workers hired not on merit but on the basis of political affiliation, too many opportunities for duplication and waste. A governmental reorganization in the interest of efficiency clearly is indicated.

"HE WAS A TERRIBLE MAN, COMRADE"—From The Washington Post.

Race Relations in Today's South Between Book Ends

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Shiftless poor-whites most of all cling to the old taboos as the only dignity they know; overwhelming mass of Negroes look to integration as to where the land is bright; but fear still lies in Reconstruction's wake, and new problems loom ahead.

Alistair Cooke in a Series on a Tour of the South in the Manchester Guardian (England)

NEW ORLEANS. Few of us ask what the Negro wants but most of us pretend to know. Among the most knowing are those who air the mystical conviction that "they don't want integration, they want to be left alone."

Most of all it comes from shiftless poor-whites who cling to the old taboos of segregation as to the tatters of the only dignity they know. The bloodiest "race-riot" of modern times was caused (in a Northern city, Detroit, by the way) when Negro war-workers spilled over into a shabby white section.

This was in July, 1943. When it was all over, a scrawny, bleary-eyed white man summed it up for me with the grim comment: "I know I'm a low-down son-of-a-bitch, but let me tell you, I'm a nigger."

If enough people think in this fashion they acquire the force of a social fact, an unpleasantness ignored by idealists and expediently battered on by politicians. So one ought to ask if there are indeed any Negroes who do not want integration.

"Georgia May Be Hell But—" Strangely enough there are. As many as one in five throughout the South, according to a survey which, however, put the question in a loaded form: it offered them a choice between a peaceable status quo in the only place they know as home and a dubious future in an unspecified Northern city.

"Me," said an old share-cropper in Georgia, "I don't wanna go no place; Georgia may be hell but it's home."

Yet from travelling and questioning one can get less despairing answers, from the people who know what they have to lose. From colored schoolteachers and policemen, and some doctors, who fear to lose their standing as big fish if they are tossed into a big pond.

Country Negroes who ask very little here below but distrust the unknown pressures of a mixed society; some, too, who fear the known wrath of whites who, with absolutely equal voting rights, would be practically disfranchised. Sensible parents who anticipate, in predominantly white neighborhoods, a new tough ordeal for their children such as progressive schools in the North innocently impose on the one or two colored children in a white class.

Negroes, Whites Have Same Fears

There are even Negroes who share the white fear of sexual taint, like a colored parent-teacher in Fayetteville, N. C., who said: "When I hear about white folks sayin' they have nothin' against us, but they just don't wanna eat and sleep with us, why that's exactly the way we feel."

But when all these are allowed for, there can be no honest doubt that the overwhelming mass of Negroes look towards the prospect of integration as towards that Western future where the land is bright.

Wherever the balance of Negroes and whites is an even one, the Negroes crave the coming of the day when they will no longer have to instruct their children at puberty in the rudiments of their own inferiority.

The conditions of integration will be infinitely varied, contrived, evaded, artificially enforced. The white-colored society of the South does not make a very neat pattern, and it never will. White Baptists in white districts will go to white churches, and officers of the law may have to bring in a quota of distant Negroes to enforce equal worship according to the law (this has already happened).

The old colored waiting-room may seem folkier than the mixed one.

What, then, has the South to fear? Why should its whites be so suddenly extravagant in endorsing separate schools? Why so troubled in mind?

Why should they hold back from the calm sea because, as one of them put it, "the surf is going to be awful rough?"

"Do you think," asked a mocking Northerner, "the Negroes are going to take over the state Legislature, elect a Governor, maybe disqualify the whites' elected representatives to Congress?"

The proper retort to this foolish question is a stunning one. That is exactly what happened in the years immediately after the Civil War, when earnest Abolitionists in New England allied with men of power to impose on the bankrupt and chaotic South colored governments that exacted from the whites the final indignities of defeat.

The South was a conquered province for 12 years, many sections of it controlled by Negro federal troops. South Carolina was denied its entire white representation in Congress. Alabama had its Governor removed, and the government jobs of all ex-Confederates were filled by Negroes. In 1878 Negroes dominated the state Legislature in the proportion of 3 to 1.

This was the fruit of one of the most fearsome partnerships in the history of idealism: that between the high-minded Trumbull and the low-minded Thaddeus Stevens, a Reconstruction McCarthey who for three years was, if ever there was one, the unproclaimed President of the United States.

The middle-aged retain somewhere beneath the placid surface of their doubts the unconscious hurt of this famous trauma.

The Ingredients of Liberty

White Baptists in the last World War brought their troubles to colored chaplains. The veterans of Korea, or of the concentrated forces, where integration is almost complete, came to distinguish only two types of soldiers: "good Joes" and "no-good Joes." They have saluted Negro officers and felt no loss of manhood.

What "the Negro" wants depends, of course, on which Negro you have in mind. Most of them, I should hazard, are going to be disappointed to find, after mixed schooling, eating, playing, worshipping, and working, that skilled jobs have to be earned; that a fish-fry tastes no better from a white cook, probably worse; that tennis is the same with an opponent of any pigment; that a waiting-room is a waiting-room and the millennium is no nearer.

If their superior men, in war and peace, can no longer claim the unholy joy of martyrdom, their ordinary men will learn that boredom and envy are also a part of equality.

But at least they will live and raise their kind in the knowledge that they are not being told what they must do and where they must not go.

It is a small thing, but it is a necessary ingredient of what we call liberty and human dignity. Like love and sex, it is unimportant only when you have it.

"BRING AND BUY SALE"

From St. Omer, Paris, France.
"Grand bring and buy sale. Ladies, you are sure to have something about the house that you don't need, yet which can be of service to others. Come on Tuesday and bring your husband."

'Ego Hugo'

OLYMPIO: THE LIFE OF VICTOR HUGO, by Andre Maurois. Translated from the French by Edward Hopkins. (Harper and Bros., Publishers, 495 pp., $5.95.)

Victor Hugo dominated nineteenth century France by sheer creative force and longevity. Other important writers (Baudelaire, Flaubert, Gautier) were born and died under his shadow. "The young poets," Maurois writes, "searched despairingly for elbow room upon some height not already occupied by him; but, incapable of competing with him on his own ground, looked for fresh fields to conquer."

Success came early to Hugo. At 15 he won a poetry prize from the French Academy. At 16 he took first place in the Toulouse Academy's contest over poets many years his senior, who addressed him as "dear colleague." At 20 he published his first book of verse and obtained a royal pension; three years later he was made Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Meanwhile he married and set out in earnest for his childhood goal, "to be Chateaubriand or nothing." By 1829, when he was 27, his writings supported him so well that he could refuse, when his play "Marion de Lorme" was banned by public censors, a third pension which the king offered to soothe his indignation. But the honors continued: he was elected to the French Academy, named peer of France and became a member of the Constituent Assembly.

The rest of the story is legend: his 18 years of exile after the coup d'etat of 1851, his triumphal return to Paris, his death at 83, followed by a dramatic state funeral; and through all the turbulent years, an outpouring of masterly verse and novels.

To foster his legend, Hugo had vast plans and ambitions. He took as his motto "Ego Hugo" and saw himself "in the midst of everything like a resounding echo." He remarked, not without good judgment, "This century can show only one true classic—one, mark you—me. I am the only living man, who knows most about the French language."

Inevitably a reaction set in. Worn by Hugo, a later generation grew up to ignore him. But in the last decade a radical change has taken place. Hugo, now honored again, is even included in the "Poets of Today" series of a noted French publisher.

Maurois has come far since writing "Ariel," his extravagant, fictional life story of poet Shelley. "Olympio" is an admirable, well documented work which shows every side of Hugo from the politician to the passionate lover. It will no doubt form the basis of a popular reappraisal of the poet. Indeed, having approached this Titan suspiciously and through many other French eyes, this reviewer, on reading "Olympio," willingly exclaims, "I go Hugo!"

Twisted Words

HOW TO PICK A WIDLOCK, by Ira Wallach. (McGraw-Hill, 125 p., $3.95.)

Mr. Wallach is one of those humorists who gets his laughs from the twisted words, the bent phrase, the subverted sentence. The title to this merry and mad little marriage manual is a pointer to what waits within for the unsuspecting reader. In the chapter on "Supreme Courting," for example, he suggests granting learners' permits before the issuance of marriage licenses. He compares the engagement kiss with the wedded buss, and on the subject of petting makes some wacky suggestions under the heading of "Petty Point." He appears skeptical about "Postal Passion," and strongly urges couples to "Rate That Mate."

In short Mr. Wallach admirably qualifies as a naughty nuptiologist, whose counsel should be enjoyed rather than enjoined.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Republican Bid for Negro Vote

WASHINGTON. THE situation is getting confused in both parties on the integration issue and who stands for what in which section of the country. This poses a problem that the long-suffering voters, white and Negro, must wrestle with between now and November.

For example, when "Jiggs" Donohue, campaign manager for Senator Estes Kefauver, blurted out in the finale of the California primary battle that a vote for Adlai Stevenson would be a vote for James E. Eastland (Dem.), Mississippi, and Allen J. Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana, and Herman Talmadge of Georgia, he adopted a line previously announced for the Republican party to use against the Democratic party as a whole.

The intent is plain in that the three Southerners are segregationists, though it came surprisingly from Donohue, serving to dramatize the well-known schism in his own party, the Democratic. Hitherto, it has been left to the Republicans to point that out.

G.O.P. Appeal to Negroes.

How Republicans plan to dramatize the Democratic schism by keeping the spotlight constantly on the Southern segregationists was explained clearly, a few days prior to the Donohue blast, by Richard L. Tobin, public relations director of the Citizens for Eisenhower, in a speech here at a conference of that revived organization.

He urged his fellow Republicans to impress upon Negroes that if Democrats win Congress in the coming election, important committees would be run by "bigoted Southern political hacks." Then he added:

"Drum into Negro voters over and over again this true fact: A vote for a Democrat is a vote for Eastland."

Battle For Congress.

Senator Eastland is singled out as the target and symbol, as you know, because he is chairman of the important Judiciary Committee which has jurisdiction over all civil rights bills. He will be chairman again if Democrats win the Senate in November.

The strategy outlined by Tobin is designed to win over

WASHINGTON. sufficient Negro voters from the Democrats in populous states and urban areas in the North to unseat enough Democrats in House and Senate to give Republicans control of the next Congress.

The Republicans are not at all sure of regaining Congress. They won Congress, as you remember, only by a hair-line margin in 1952 because of the Eisenhower pulling power, but then lost it in the 1954 congressional elections when the President was not a candidate and did not have his name at the head of the ballot.

They believe that the Negro vote might be what would recapture Congress for them in November.

President's Silence.

The Eastland-segregationist campaign line will be beamed only at the North and not at the South.

The President has kept himself out of the integration controversy, which has helped him in the South. He has, in fact, said far less than almost any Democrat in public life that you could name.

Stevenson and Senator Kefauver were quizzed about the issue and talked about it continually during the three-month primary campaign. What little the President said at a news conference some weeks ago would locate him with the "moderates" who uphold the Supreme Court public school decision and urge gradual implementation, without use of force.

Answer Awaited.

That brackets him with Stevenson, who is trying desperately to hold the Democratic party together and thus retain Southern support for his nomination. Is it possible for Stevenson to preserve the necessarily precarious balance within his party, or will other leaders demanding a more rapid integration process and a more vigorous policy generally prevail in the convention and alienate the South?

The question must await an answer. It epitomizes the dilemma of the Negro voters generally, and of many leaders in both parties.

The cast comprises Mary McCarty, who plays the title role; Mark Dawson, in the leading male role; Oliver Cliff, as Buffalo Bill; Arthur Barnett, Nan McFarland, Elaine Dunn, Richard France, Allen Conroy, Joe Cusanelli and others.

$2,500,000 GALLERY FOR MODERN ART

A. & P. Heir to Erect Structure Near New York Coliseum.

NEW YORK, June 11 (UPI)—Millionaire art patron Huntington Hartford announced yesterday he will spend $2,500,000 for a gallery of modern art to be built near the recently-opened New York Coliseum in Columbus Circle.

The grandson of the founder of the A.P. grocery store chain will construct a 10-story building, to be completed in 1958, on a site that cost him nearly $1,000,000 to acquire.

Cost of the marble gallery will be added $1,500,000, according to Hartford. The building will have a restaurant in a green setting on the top, a theater for art movies, and six or seven floors to be devoted to exhibition space.

The art exhibition space will be about equal to that of the Museum of Modern Art. Hartford said the new project will be a "gallery, rather than a museum," and although a curator will be in charge, paintings will be sold in the gallery.

I want to encourage artists, but the emphasis will be on exhibition," Hartford said. He characterized his views on art "quite liberal—but I don't favor extreme abstract expressionism, or other extreme trends."

The new gallery of modern art will have on permanent loan the 25 paintings in the "Huntington and Marjorie Hartford collection." Hartford's wife is Marjorie Steele, an actress who will soon assume the title role in the Broadway play "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

Wehmeier Proves to Cards He's the Man Bucs Forgot in Rebuilding

Hurler Gains His First Triumph in Cardinals' Park in Nine Seasons

By Jack Rice

Like Grant taking Richmond, news that Herm Wehmeier has taken Pittsburgh again hardly is a story of bulletin importance any more. Pitcher Wehmeier dotes on the Pirates the way the Cardinals used to dote on Wehmeier, and both are plain cases of unrequited love.

When Frank Lane got Wehmeier from the Phils in a trade this season, it was suspected that the general manager had been away from the National League so long he had forgotten who his Santa Claus was. The Cardinals had blessed Wehmeier with a career record against them of zero victories, and 14 defeats.

Lane stoutly professed admiration for Wehmeier, a 29-year-old right-hander who long has been typed as a man who "has all the tools, but..." In baseball, this is the equivalent of saying, "She's a nice girl." Don't expect a raving beauty of a find.

Today, there at least is a fresh viewpoint for the deal, and the viewpoint is Wehmeier's. He was that Cardinal rarity, a shutout victor, in the second game of yesterday's doubleheader. The score was 3 to 0. It was a game to look good all by itself, but after an 11-3 defeat by their former failure of a lefthander, Luis Arroyo, in the first game, it was a thing of rare beauty, indeed.

Beating the Bucs Old Stuff.

Wehmeier's victory was his twentieth in his 22 most recent starts against the Pirates, a Pittsburgh researcher said. He has won 25, lost eight against the Pirates since he took up major league pitching with Cincinnati. That's all very fine, said Wehmeier, but it ignores the most important point:

"This," he said with no grin to mar the solemnity of the occasion, "is the first game I've ever won in this ball park in nine years of trying." It was one way to look at the day's events in Busch Stadium, and it was the way that pleased Wehmeier most.

He has been subjected to many inquiries about what makes a jinx, for or against. His effectiveness against Pittsburgh has covered Branch Rickey's rebuilding program thoroughly. "Before, during and after it," said Wehmeier, "since 1948."

The club he defeated this time must be the best Pirate team he has faced yet, it says in the standings. The Bucs are third, a half game out of first place, and because he defeated them, the Cardinals are virtually tied for first with Cincinnati. It was a piece of arithmetic that had Manager Fred Hutchinson figuring, as well as Wehmeier.

The pitcher figured, "Well, this is the first one I've won here, and that's something. Maybe it's the one it takes to get rolling." Hutchinson said, "Why can't he do it all the time? Well, maybe. He's sure got the equipment."

First Full Game as Card.

If the Pirates beat him, he'd be back to back, but for his work he saved himself, for his work was an abrupt improvement over anything he had done before. His earned-run average before the game was 4.91, tenth-ranked on an 11-man staff, and in four previous starts his greatest defeat had been 6 1/2 innings. It had been good for his only previous victory. It was, therefore, against Pittsburgh.

Hutchinson, totting the tab for the day, gave thanks for Wehmeier's specialty, gave hope that it may branch out to include other teams, and shook a finger at a copy of the standings. "You lose three and somebody wins three, and you're in the smokehouse, way down deep, aren't you?" he said, expecting no denials and not getting any.

It was almost a gay note, for the first game made the Cardinals seem totally unable to play well before a gallery. They drew 28,129 persons, the best paid-attendance figure they've had here this year. Cash in the till was all they had, against Arroyo. Their prize lefthander the first semester of last year, Arroyo flattered for eight innings; but after the Pirate ninth, there was no chance he would fall.

Pirates Score 7 in Ninth.

The Pirates scored seven runs in their ninth. Until then, it had been a strictly beat-by-trades game. Former Cardinal star rookie Bill Virdon had homered in the seventh for a 4-3 Pittsburgh lead.

The business of making it a rout instead of a matter for

Freeman, Cage Star, Chops Off Tips of Fingers

CINCINNATI, June 11 (AP)—Robin Freeman, phenomenal Ohio State basketball guard, lost parts of the middle and index fingers on his left hand in a woodchopping accident yesterday.

The injury was believed to have ended plans for a professional basketball career for Freeman, who had been drafted by the St. Louis Hawks.

The slender guard, whose "miracle hands" helped him break a flock of scoring records, underwent surgery at Good Samaritan Hospital here after the incident. Hospital aides said he was in "good" condition.

His father, Robin Freeman Sr., said that the two fingers were lost "about the second joint" but that his son "will have partial mobility" in the remaining finger section.

Freeman was an All Big-Ten selection for three straight years and was named to at least seven All-American squads this past year.

The elder Freeman said he did not ask his son details of how the accident happened, but said it came while his son was working in the yard at their home here.

"He wanted to clean up the lawn, and of course, he's been inactive since the end of the basketball season," said his father.

"There were some old logs back there that I had been burning and they were kinda hard. He got his Boy Scout hatchet out and was cutting them over him."

Freeman, 21, and only 5-foot-11-inches tall, cut a wide swath through O.S.U. School and Big Ten scoring marks playing a game where most of his rivals towered over him.

He pumped in an average of 32.5 points per game last season and put in more than 11 field goals per game in the Big Ten.

Close comparisons began with a scratch injury by Johnny O'Brien in the ninth. Arroyo sacrificed and right-hander Larry Jackson intentionally walked left-hander Virdon. Dick Groat crossed up that move with a single, scoring O'Brien. A double by Roberto Clemente caused another intentional walk, and Frank Thomas doubled. Ellis Kinder relieved Jackson, the better to help people eventually get home for supper, and Gene Freese homered for runs 6 and 7.

The second game skipped all such nonsense, or threat of it. Only one Pirate reached second base, until the seventh. Wehmeier walked Lee Walls to start the seventh, and Walls worked around to third, as others grounded out. Walls was left on third, and Wehmeier was left with possession of the Pirates, the only man Rickey forgot in his rebuilding program.

Young Golfer Struck By Ball Dies of Injury

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 11 (UPI)—Donald L. Holloway, 10 years old, a beginner in golf, died today after being struck on the temple by a ball at Whittle Springs golf course.

Hospital attendants said the young shipping clerk died in surgery when physicians tried to clear his throat of clotting blood. Holloway had undergone an operation earlier to relieve brain pressure and internal bleeding.

Holloway son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Holloway, was hit by a ball driven on the thirteenth fairway Saturday by a companion, Jerry Roberts. Holloway was waiting about 40 yards in front of Roberts who was making a fairway shot to the paring green. The young golfer had been unconscious since the accident.

McAteers Lose First Game in 12 Innings

The East St. Louis McAteers lost their first game in the Inter-City baseball league yesterday, 3-2, to Troy, which scored the winning run in the twelfth on singles by Al Holloway, Cliff Hoedebreck and Art Capelle.

Ed Reinagel relieved Troy starter Bob Scott in the ninth.

Ziegler Boys Capture Three Jaycee Berths

The golfing Ziegler boys of Westwood cornered the market in the Junior Chamber of Commerce tournament at Crystal Lake today, winning three of the four berths in the state jaycee championships to be held at Mexico, Mo., June 18-19.

Larry Ziegler was low in the local event with 37-36-73. Brothers Richard and Charles Ziegler were next with 39-37-76 and 41-35-76, respectively.

Jim Rohan, Grove Coeur, and Dave Lester, Kirkwood, tied for fourth place with 40-37-77 each.

In a playoff for the fourth berth in the state event, Rohan defeated Lester on the second extra hole.

At Norwood Hills, where the St. Louis Jaycee qualifying was held, Jack Delahunt and Bill Burke were tied at 72 after the first of two scheduled rounds. Tom Fischer scored 73, Bob Knickmeyer 75 and Don Antal 81. Three players will qualify for the state tournament from the Norwood competition.

Two Drivers Killed In Weekend Crashes At Arkansas Track

LEHI, Ark., June 11 (AP)—Two stock car drivers were killed in weekend crashes at the Memphis-Arkansas speedway.

Thomas (Cotton) Priddy, 27, Louisville, Ky., died after his 1956 Chevrolet cracked up during a 250-mile race on the dirt track yesterday.

Clint McHugh, 28, Biloxi, Miss., was killed during time trials Saturday when his 1956 Oldsmobile went out of control on a turn and crashed through a guard rail into a lake.

Priddy's car sideswiped another racer on the thirty-ninth lap and flipped several times. Both Priddy and McHugh, who were close friends, were thrown clear of their cars and suffered multiple injuries.

Winner of the race, the Nascar's grand national championship, was Ralph Moody, Dania, Fla., driving a 1956 Ford.

Bloomington Shooter Takes Illinois Title

STREATOR, Ill., June 11 (AP)—Gene Goldsborough of Bloomington won the handicap title in the eightieth annual Illinois Trap Shooting championships in a field of 417 entries.

Goldsborough won by breaking 98 of 100 targets. Harry Parsons of Oquawka took second place after a shoot-off with five others. All finished with 97-100.

Mrs. Marguerite Allemen of Champaign was crowned women's champion with 92-100 and Mrs. Abreda Wayda of Fennecville won the women's open title with 90-100.

Ron Northey Recalled By the White Sox

BOSTON, June 11 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox sent pitcher Joe Dahlke back to their Memphis farm club and recalled outfielder Ron Northey from Indianapolis.

Dahlke, a right-hander, hurled only 2 1/2 innings in five appearances this season and gave up five runs.

Northey, 36, will rejoin the White Sox at New York in time for a three-game series against the Yankees beginning tomorrow.

English Wins Title

Frank English defeated Ralph Metcalfe, 1 up in the 36 hole final for the Algonquin Country Club golf championship. English shot 75 and 68, while Metcalfe had 73-71.

Soviet Women Triumph

VIENNA, Austria, June 11 (UPI)—Soviet Russia won the European women's basketball championship yesterday by beating Hungary, 49-41, at Prague, a Czech broadcast said.

Dodgers Here Tonight; Newcombe And Poholsky Likely to Start

The Cardinals begin a series with the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight, and after it is completed Tuesday night, that is the last to be seen of the Redbirds at Busch Stadium until June 29. Their record on the current home stand is 10 victories, eight defeats.

Don Newcombe (8-4) is Brooklyn's probable starter, and Tom Poholsky (3-3) is likely to pitch for the Redbirds. Newcombe is 1-0 against the Cards this season. Poholsky is 1-and-1 against the Dodgers.

Stan Musial doubled, driving home Grady Hatton, who had tripled, in the fourth inning of yesterday's second game. Musial went to third as Ken Boyer grounded out and scored on Hank Sauer's single. That was the climax to a remarkable Saturday-and-Sunday recovery by Musial. He homered with two on base in Sunday's first game to account for all the Redbird runs in it. In the final three games of the series he had eight hits in 12 times at bat, raising his average from .281 to .306.

Cardinal Shutout No. 4.

Wehmeier's shutout was the fourth the Cardinals have had this year. Poholsky has pitched two, and Harvey Haddix, now of Philadelphia, had one.

The Pirates won two, the Redbirds won two, in the series, but it was no 50-50 proposition for Dale Long, the Pittsburgh wonder of recent note. He had four hits—including one homer, his seventeenth—in 15 times at bat.

A Two-Glove Play.

Cardinal Shortstop Don Blas-ingame made the two-glove play of the day, in the first game. Pitching to Dick Groat with two runs in, and two out, and the bases loaded, Willard Schmidt had the ball lined his way. Schmidt got a glove on it, loosely speaking. The ball took the glove with it, and both ball and glove landed some 20 feet behind the mound.

Blasingame, racing in from short, picked up the ball and threw to retire Groat, a remarkable conquest over space and time. First baseman Moon's grab for the throw and the put-out was hands in, and two out. In the seventh, Groat was made sadder when Hank Sauer leaped high against the wall for a putout of Groat's apparent extra-base hit.

Late in the second game, an announcement was made over the public address system: Spectators are most welcome to foul balls hit into the stands, but they are asked to stop the growing practice of invading the field to grab baseballs. It could be dangerous.

There was some booing, but there also were some reasonable people who cheered the notion that the diamond is a playing surface for professionals, not for small boys of all ages.—J. R.

Water Polo League.

A water polo league is being formed at Marquette pool where games will be played Wednesday and Thursday nights, starting early in July. Entries must be filed by June 20 with Earl Grasser at MA. 1-5560, station 678.

Campanella Out Of Lineup for Rest

MANAGER WALT ALSTON of the Brooklyn Dodgers said he has taken Catcher Roy Campanella out of the lineup for tonight's game with the Cardinals "for a rest." Campanella may be on the bench tomorrow night, too.

Alston said Campanella has been playing with a bad leg the last two weeks. He said he didn't know if the bad leg was the cause of the catcher's recent slump in batting "but he needs the rest, anyhow. He has caught every game for the last month and a half."

German, Finn Top Olympic Equestrians

STOCKHOLM, June 11 (AP)—A Finn and a German set the pace among early competitors today in the dressage portion of the Three-Day trials as the Equestrian Olympics opened before a sun-drenched crowd of 7000 at Olympic Stadium.

The first American to ride, Army Major J. R. Burton of Berwyn, Ill., fared poorly. O. Routhé of Germany, riding Sissi, took the early lead with 98.4 penalty points with Finland's K. O. E. Tolvanen close behind with 107.6. Maj. Burton suffered 155.6 penalty points in his ride aboard Hunt-ingleif.

Dressage is one of the most complicated maneuvers in sports. The object is to show calmness, keenness and manageableness of the horse as well as regularity, lightness and freedom of his paces. The moves are performed in a rectangular area and viewed by five judges. The rider with the fewest number of penalty points is the winner.

In events of Olympic caliber, 90-110 penalty points is considered good and 80 or below exceptional.

Flaherty Triumphs in 100-Mile Auto Race

MILWAUKEE, June 11 (INS)—Pat Flaherty, winner of the 500-mile Memorial day auto race at Indianapolis, captured the 100-mile Rex Mays classic yesterday at Milwaukee.

Flaherty finished two-thirds of a mile ahead of last year's winner, Johnny Thomson. The red-haired Chicago tavern owner averaged 98.958 miles per hour.

FEELING OF PEACE AND RECOVERY ARE NOTED IN EUROPE

will have some further remarks to make on that subject after I have visited further and seen the Prime Minister and President of France, the Prime Minister of Belgium and Her Majesty, the Queen of the Netherlands.

The attitude of nearly all the people I have talked with, and I have talked with people of all classes in the various countries we have visited, is that they are exceedingly grateful to the United States for the Marshall Plan and for Point Four.

U.S. Foreign Policy.

They are inclined to give too much credit to the former President for those two programs, but I have been telling them that the plans were a part of the foreign policy of the United States, which represented the whole people and was put into effect only because the people understood the need and wanted to meet it.

On this business of passing out credit for things, I get kind of down in the mouth when they try to pin a pair of wings on me for doing something that it was my duty to do anyway. But I shouldn't complain. I don't know how any man could have been more courteously treated. I have found nowhere any enmity or illfeeling toward the people of the United States. I am still looking for it, and if I come across any such feeling I will try to find out the cause—and the people in the United States will hear from me about it.

I do not think that I will find any hostility toward the United States. They look to us for leadership in the Free World and I was able to assure those with whom I talked that we would continue to maintain leadership, as we have in the past.

From the conversations I have had with government leaders in Italy, Austria and Germany, I am of opinion that they all are anxious for peace with freedom in Europe and want us in America to help them get it.

It was my good fortune to see some of the Foreign Ministers at their meeting in Venice. We happened to have lunch at the same place where they were meeting to try to work out a program for the interchange of goods and services between their countries on a basis of economic benefit for all Europe. They call it the "common market." Eventually I think it will come. It will contribute both to peace and to a Free Europe.

Pleasant Surprise. The trip hasn't been all conferences and study, of course. Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Woodward have done some shopping in Salzburg and Munich, the bills for which Mr. Woodward and I still are waiting.

In Bonn there was a most pleasant surprise. Maj. Gen. John F. Uncles, chief of staff of the United States Army in Germany, came to join us at breakfast at the home of Ambassador Conant.

Johnny Uncles was a private in my artillery battery in France in 1918. A call went out through the Thirty-Fifth Division for officers to recommend enlisted men for a competitive examination for entrance into West Point. I recommended Johnny Uncles. He was one of the seven men from our division to win an appointment.

Thursday at breakfast was the first time I had seen him with the two stars of major general. Off and on I had seen him over the years as a shavetail lieutenant, a captain, major, colonel and brigadier.

I have to admit a feeling of pride, here, for I am most fond of this outstanding young man who certainly has made good in his chosen profession.

Another notable thing about that breakfast was that it was American, right down to the coffee. European food is good, but American breakfasts are better, particularly the coffee. Some of the people in our group are fond of Italian and French coffee, but it is a little too stout for the old man.

Proud Of Cooking. Europeans are justifiably proud of their cooking, though. At the Four Seasons Hotel in Munich we found out about that. We were having a sort of family dinner and gave our orders to the head waiter in our room. Each of us carefully told him what we wanted. When he arrived in the dining room, however, we found a special set-up for a seven- or eight-course dinner. It consisted of things we not only had not ordered, but some things none of us ever had heard of.

The manager and owner of the hotel, we were informed, is a very arbitrary man and treats his guests as he thinks they ought to be treated, irrespective of what they like.

It was a wonderful meal that began with lobster and finished with hot glazed strawberries. The meat course was venison. A great meal it was, but too much for a fat man—not that we are admitting that anybody in this party is fat, but we aren't taking any chances.

In Munich we visited the palace of the old Grand Elector of Bavaria, a magnificent, ornate building with great, colorful pictures painted on the walls and ceilings of the main halls and with a long, tree-lined parkway extending out almost as far as the eye can see.

As my recollection goes, the man who built it had ambitions to become emperor of the Holy Roman Empire. He didn't quite make it, but he made enough to be able to afford to build his tremendous palace.

Special Sleeping Car. After a few hours in Munich on Wednesday we boarded a train for Bonn. The railway put a special sleeping car on the train for us and we snuggled in for a good night's rest. The rest was good while it lasted, but that was only until 2 a.m. in Wurzburg.

There my secretary, Gene Bailey, awakened me and told me a spring in the undercarriage of our car had broken and we would have to get dressed and move to a second-class sleeper. Everybody seemed in a reasonably good mood after only a couple of hours sleep and we finally got settled in

Getting Acquainted at Zoo

MAJ. AUBREY WEINMAN (seated), director of the Ceylon Zoo, getting acquainted with Duke, leader of the band in the chimpanzee show at St. Louis Zoo, while visiting here yesterday. Standing, left to right, are: GEORGE P. VIERHILLER, Zoo director; ERNEST JACOBI, director of the Amsterdam Zoo, and MIKE KOSTIAL, chimpanzee trainer.

FOREIGN VISITOR RATES ZOO HERE 'SECOND TO NONE'

The St. Louis Zoo was rated as "second to none" by Maj. Aubrey Weinman, director of the Ceylon Zoo, who was in St. Louis on a world tour of zoos and soon will undertake the task of training 150 elephants to participate in a movie to be filmed in Ceylon.

Following a visit yesterday at the St. Louis Zoo, during which Weinman saw the chimpanzee and lion shows twice, the British visitor said he was "most impressed with the animal shows, but particularly with your Zoo director (George P. Vierhiller) . . . a real personality . . . good showman . . . has the happy knack of getting the right man for the job." After completing his tour, Weinman will return to Ceylon to train the elephants for their parts in a film to be titled "Bandoora." It will be based on two books written by Col. J. H. Williams, "Bandoora" and "Elephant Bill." Williams and Weinman will work together on production of the movie.

Another visitor at the St. Louis Zoo yesterday was Ernest Jacobi, director of the Amsterdam Zoo, The Netherlands. He and Weinman came to St. Louis from the convention of the International Union of Zoo Directors in Chicago.

The new car, but there was no more sleep for Mrs. Truman, Gene and me. By the time the train got under way it was 3 a.m. and the sun was lighting the sky. The three of us sat up the rest of the night fascinated by the beauty of the valleys of the Main and the Rhine.

In Bonn President Theodor Heuss took us to the home of Beethoven which was much like that of Mozart in Salzburg. Unlike the Mozart home, however, the pianos that Beethoven had used were not in working order. The keyboards were covered with glass and nobody was permitted to play them. I was told that the strings were broken and had not been repaired.

They did have manuscript copies of Beethoven works and other mementos of the great composer. Also there were two clocks which were in the home when Beethoven lived there. Each was running. I talked to President Heuss about this and asked why the clocks were kept in repair but not the pianos. He saw the point and said he would do something about it.

German Composers. At lunch later Heuss, Adenauer and I talked about great German composers. I mentioned three or four, but did not include Haydn. Adenauer said with emphasis that Haydn was greater than any I had named. I explained I had omitted him because I was thinking more of piano composers. I agreed that Haydn was one of the greatest, but not the greatest, and then explained my judgment was that of an amateur only.

The visits to the homes of Mozart and Beethoven were most interesting to me. I found that my daughter, Margaret, had been there ahead of me in each place and had paved the way for my arrival. The people seemed exceedingly happy to meet the former Margaret Truman's father.

CAIRO NEWSPAPER SAYS EGYPT WON'T BE RED SATELLITE

CAIRO, June 11 (AP)—The newspaper Al Shaab said yesterday Egyptian Premier Nasser's government will not agree to become a satellite of Moscow "even if the price is obliteration of Israel."

Al Shaab, recently established with government backing and considered a government organ, made the comments in reply to reports that Egypt was moving into the Communist bloc in exchange for Soviet backing against Israel.

"It is not logical that we should struggle for centuries to rid ourselves of western domination so as to surrender our freedom to the East," Al Shaab declared. "To Egypt's leaders there is no difference between domination of the eastern bloc and domination of the western bloc."

WHITMAN CANDY ACCUSED OF PRICE DISCRIMINATION

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission yesterday accused Stephen F. Whitman & Sons, Inc., of Philadelphia of price discrimination in the sale of Whitman's Sampler and other candies.

An FTC complaint charged the company with violating anti-trust laws by giving discriminatory price discounts to favored customers. It said the discounts, based on annual purchases, ranged up to 10 per cent for purchases of $10,000 or more.

The commission said outlets of chain stores can claim the maximum 10 per cent discount if the chain's purchases exceed $10,000. Many independent merchants, it said, often buy more candy than a competing chain unit but qualify for no more than a 4 per cent discount.

SAVED TWICE, WIDOW DIES ON FUNERAL PYRE IN INDIA

CALCUTTA, India, June 11 (UP)—Sarala Devi threw herself on her husband's funeral pyre at Parsa three times before she was allowed to die, it was reported today.

The third time villagers honored religious custom over man-made law and allowed the young Hindu widow to join her husband in death.

Indian authorities have barred the ancient custom of suttee and when the widow threw herself on the flames her village neighbors saved her twice. She showed such determination to die, however, that they made no effort to save her the third time.

PONTECORVO URGES MORE CONTACT AMONG SCIENTISTS

MOSCOW, June 11 — Bruno Pontecorvo, the nuclear physicist who fled behind the Iron Curtain in 1950 and has since been working for the Soviet Union, called yesterday for more contacts among scientists of all nations.

The Italian-born scientist who was a British subject at the time he came here made this appeal in Pravda, the Communist party newspaper. The article was co-authored by Prof. D. Blokhintsev and Academician V. Zexler, who are now in Geneva for an international conference on high energy physics. The scientists praised work being done in this field abroad and especially in the United States.

DEANS DISAGREE ON WAY TO GET MORE ENGINEERS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Two deans of the University of Michigan agree there is a great national need for technicians and engineers, but disagree on how to fill that need.

Dean Walter J. Emmons of the College of Engineering says, "No one is attempting to funnel students willy-nilly into engineering or any courses they won't succeed in."

But Dean James H. Robertson of the Literary college says the trouble reaches down to the high school level, and the United States is in danger of entering a technical training race with Russia.

Stevenson Victory in California Is Laid to His 'Fighting Mood'

Illinoisian's Backers Attribute His Success to Down-to-Earth Talks After Minnesota Debacle.

By EDWARD A. HARRIS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, June 11—Close friends of Adlai E. Stevenson pictured him today as describing his momentous California primary victory to the "fighting mood" he developed after Senator Estes Kefauver's upset victory in the Minnesota primary.

Now, with his big California victory, Stevenson, the party's 1952 standard bearer, is willing to concede that he felt his political fortunes were all but shattered early in April in the wake of the Minnesota debacle, it was said.

the party nomination of Richard M. Nixon, an attorney and State Senator from Los Angeles county, in the race for United States Senator. Republican Senator Thomas G. Kuchel had hoped to capture both Democratic and Republican nominations under the state's cross-filing system, but failed to do so.

Richards' nomination assures the Democrats of a rip-roaring campaign. Kuchel has vast party strength throughout the state and few enemies, while Richards, a fluent speaker and a popular office holder among liberals and independents, can be counted on to give Kuchel the run of his political life.

Stevenson's Big Margin.

For a time it appeared that Senator Kefauver also would give Stevenson a hard run in the primary, but as the campaign neared a close it became apparent, from polls taken almost on the eve of the election, that Stevenson had a broad edge. Few, however, expected the former Illinois Governor to win by so large a margin.

Kefauver supporters in California have not given up hope. His campaign leaders, while admittedly depressed by his California defeat, insist that he will go into the Chicago convention to make a rousing fight for the nomination despite all the odds against him. Kefauver was beaten in California despite the support of Edwin W. Pauley, former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee and wealthy oil man, who reportedly favors a compromise dark-horse for the party nomination.

VILE BOOKS AS DANGEROUS AS NARCOTICS, POPE SAYS

VATICAN CITY, June 11 (AP)—Pope Pius XII today sharply attacked books that emphasize vice. He told delegates to a recent world congress of editors at Florence the danger from such books was not restricted to children. Severe penalties imposed by law against such books are as justified as are those against the traffic of narcotics, the Pope continued. Such books, he said, produce dangerous excitement that "sometimes totally paralyzes higher faculties and produces a permanent disorder, an artificial need of passionate character that at times reaches a real aberration."

POSTAL CHIEF HITS FISCAL OPERATION AS NEXT TO WORST

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield said yesterday "The United States Post Office Department has the poorest fiscal operation of any important country on the face of the earth," with one exception. Summerfield said he was "ashamed" to report that except for one country in South America—he didn't name it—all other nations conduct their mail operations on a more businesslike basis.

In response to questions in a television interview, Summerfield said his department has a "poor" financial record because Congress "has failed to adjust the rates realistically with the increase of costs over the last 20 years."

Summerfield did say he thinks the chances "are excellent" that Congress will approve Administration-requested increases in postal rates at its current session.

The postal rate bill has been approved by the House Post Office Committee and is scheduled for floor action soon.

Lactalbumin—The Revolutionary New Protein "Booster" From Milk—Gives It A "Higher Protein To Calorie Ratio"

In the brain's hypothalamic region, the appetite control center sets, in normal people, to increase your appetite... or... to reduce your appetite.

PROFILE SPECIAL FORMULA BREAD DOES JOB FOR LESS

Two slices of Profile Special Formula Bread 30 to 60 minutes before lunch and dinner should appease your appetite control center.

Four slices of Profile Special Formula Bread cost about a nickel. Many wafers, pills, and tablets, used for appetite appeasement, cost up to twice as much to take. Thus, Profile Special Formula Bread cuts appetite for half their cost!

Actually, a one-pound Profile Special Formula Bread gives you about 24% more complete protein than ordinary whole wheat bread; about 28% more than ordinary white bread. Because it contains the new miracle protein "booster" from milk—lactalbumin.

A loaf supplies about as much complete protein as 3 lamb chops. Note chart at right for vitamin and mineral content. Be sure to eat a well-balanced diet for sufficient vitamins and minerals.

BUY PROFILE SPECIAL FORMULA BREAD FOR ALL THE FAMILY

Buy Profile Special Formula Bread. It costs a few pennies more. And is worth it.

INQUIRY INTO ILLINOIS AUDITOR'S OFFICE

State's Attorney Acting After Criticism of Hodge by Chicago Paper.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 11.—A special investigation into the operation of State Auditor Orville E. Hodge's office has been ordered by the Sangamon county state's attorney, it was announced today.

The Chicago Daily News has been carrying stories about "reported payroll padding and other irregularities" in Hodge's office. Hodge has denied the truth of these reports.

Assistant State's Attorney J. Walde Ackerman Jr. said he was told by State's Attorney George P. Couterken to make the investigation and report when Couterken returns from vacation at the end of this month.

One of Hodge's aids said today that Hodge has suspended his policy of permitting newspaper reporters to examine office records. This was done, the aid said, because Ackerman was believed ready to begin his inquiry today. Hodge said he would co-operate in every way with Ackerman.

The Daily News has produced vouchers showing the auditor's office paid $5267 to the St. Nicholas Hotel here for entertainment during the 1955 legislative session and $5597 for catering service by a Springfield restaurant.

The newspaper also said a number of persons, including Democratic politicians and friends and relatives of Hodge, who is a Republican, were dropped from his payroll after a reporter remanded to see the payroll vouchers.

BIG CROWD MOBS TITO, RED CHIEFS AT STALINGRAD

STALINGRAD, U.S.S.R., June 11 (AP)—President Josip (Tito) Broz of Yugoslavia, accompanied by Soviet leaders Nikita Khrushchev and A. I. Mikoyan, was mobbed by a tremendous crowd that jammed the railroad station when he arrived in Stalingrad today.

An American woman, Mrs. Betty Mase of Bronxville, N.Y., traveling as a reporter with the official party, was swept up by the mob and forced into Deputy Premier Mikoyan's car.

She had been chatting with him when the crowd engulfed them. She described the crowd as "wildly enthusiastic, friendly and uncontrollable."

From the station, the official party drove to Marmay hill, where the Nazi tide was turned in the battle for Stalingrad in World War II.

At the monument over a mass grave, a memorial to the defenders of Stalingrad, the crowd pushed and shoved and Communist party chief Khrushchev had to leap up on a granite structure and admonish them.

WILEY REJECTS DAVIS CHALLENGE TO DEBATES

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Representative Glenn Davis, who is seeking to unseat Senator Alexander Wiley, today challenged the Senator to a series of debates prior to the Wisconsin Republican primary Sept. 11.

Wiley, now in Wisconsin, dictated the following statement to his office after being told of the Davis challenge:

"The issues of the Wisconsin campaign are too well known to require any personal debate. The basic issue is my record of 17½ years of achievement including the St. Lawrence seaway versus my opponent's record of 'do nothingism.' It is perfectly understandable why my opponent should seek a public platform in order to try to explain his completely barren record but I don't intend to accommodate him and his excuses for do nothingism."

BAHRAIN ORDERS COMPLETE BOYCOTT OF ISRAEL TRADE

DAMASCUS, Syria, June 11 (AP)—Emir Saliman bin Hamad at Kahalia, ruler of the British protectorate of Bahrain, has ordered a complete boycott of Israel in his country. Dr. Abdul Karim Elaidi, director of the inter-Arab boycott of Israel office, said today.

The order bars all direct and indirect import and export transactions with Israel.

Bahrain is the first Arab country outside the Arab League to join the Arab embargo against Israel. The British Foreign Office in London, which directs foreign relations of the protectorate, said it had no information of a Bahrain refusal to trade with Israel.

It added that even in normal times trade between the states was very small.

CHICAGO GANG BROKEN UP BY ARREST IN BELLEVILLE

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. CHICAGO, June 11.—Nine persons were arrested here over the weekend as a result of the capture last week in Belleville, Ill., of George W. Butler of Chicago. The arrests broke up a gang, which police said, exchanged narcotics for stolen goods.

Butler, a Negro, told detectives he had exchanged rings and watches he took in a pawnshop holdup for heroin at an address on the South Side here. In a raid at the address given by Butler, detectives arrested five men and two women. Two other men were picked up later.

A supply of heroin was confiscated in the raid. Those arrested were charged with offenses that ranged from armed robbery to narcotics addiction.

TRAVELER'S CHECK THEFT GANG ACTIVE IN EUROPE

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 11 (AP)—Police reported today they have discovered an elaborate racket in which a band of international crooks has been filching traveler's checks from wealthy tourists and cashing them all over Europe.

Frankfurt authorities called a news conference to announce the first arrest had been made and that police of 10 countries were moving in on the gang.

A police official said thieves make off with traveler's checks, mostly from Americans, take the checks to gang headquarters where forgers copy the signatures and prepare fake passports, and then go all over the continent, by plane or in American cars, to cash the checks in banks or in stores.

2 HELD IN KILLING OF INFORMER IN BRINK'S HOLDUP

Hoodlum's Body Found in Auto in Boston —
One Suspect Recently Beat Him.

BOSTON, June 11 (AP) — Two men were booked early today on suspicion of murder in the gangland-style killing of an ex-convict who reportedly divulged information to the Federal Bureau of Investigation about the $1,218,211 Brink's robbery.

The victim was William J. Cameron, 49 years old, a hoodlum whose body was found yesterday in his parked automobile at the rear of a Navy barracks building on the south Boston waterfront.

Booked on a Boston police charge of "suspicious persons in connection with murder" were Thomas J. Ballou, 27, of Quincy, who was free in $20,000 bail on an indictment charging him with being an accessory in the Brink's robbery, and Thomas A. Callahan, 50, an ex-convict waterfront "tough guy."

A third man also was being questioned, but no charges have been placed against him.

Police said they have information that Callahan recently beat Cameron severely after accusing him of being a "stool pigeon"—an informer.

Ballou was indicted less than a month ago after authorities accused him of serving as courier for Thomas F. Richardson, 48, and James J. Faherty, 44, while both lay in hiding in a tenement.

Last Seized in Holdup. Richardson and Faherty were the last to be captured of the 10 men in custody on charges of being the Brink's robbers. Cameron's body was slouched under the dashboard of his car with two bullet holes in his face.

A police official said Cameron once lived in a house that had been "staked out" as the hideout for Faherty while he and Richardson were evading police for more than a year.

The official said Cameron apparently never got the money he was promised for hiring the Boston apartment and went to the FBI after several attempts to collect his "fee" for his services to Faherty.

Callahan was described by police as a close friend of Jordan Perry, 31, of Boston, who was arrested in Baltimore about a week ago on charges he tried to pass about $4000 of the Brink's loot.

Clothing Seized. Police who arrested Ballou seized some clothing from his home and said they would have it examined for bloodstains.

Callahan, who has a long police record, had been sought since Perry's arrest in Baltimore. Police and FBI agents had been watching his house all day yesterday. Fifteen minutes before midnight last night, he drove up to his house and was arrested.

Cameron's widow, Pauline, was quoted by police as saying her husband got a phone call about 12:15 a.m. yesterday while they were watching television.

She said she heard her husband say over the telephone: "Where can I meet you? I'll see you in about 15 minutes."

Twenty minutes later, Mrs. Cameron was quoted further, a male visitor came to their door and her husband—wearing work clothes and slippers—left with him after shouting to her: "I'm going to give him a push."

Police theorized that the visitor reported his car had broken down and was in need of a tow.

Cameron's body was found about two hours later.

STOCKS' RECOVERY PACES PRESIDENT'S

Wall Street Heartened by Eisenhower's Improvement
Over the Weekend.

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower's condition was described as excellent today, and the stock market made excellent progress.

Prices on Friday broke badly in the midst of all the uncertainties aroused by news of the President's illness. There were three waves of selling, and in closing minutes the market made a strong recovery.

That recovery continued strongly today at the opening. The prices were around their best at the close.

Prices were up 1 to 3 points in most key sections of the list, and a few pushed even higher. Losses were usually minor.

There were 122 individual issues traded of which 787 were higher and 190 lower with eight new highs and 29 new lows for the year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $2.20 at the close, at 479.41, from $179.20 with the industrial component of the average up $4.30, railroads up $1.80, and utilities up 30 cents.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 4.12 points higher at 479.41, from 465.29. The 20 rails gained 1.83 at 163.86 and the 15 utilities rose 37 of a point to 65.58.)

Based on the average, the market today recovered more than two thirds of the estimated three and one-half billion dollar loss from the quoted value of listed securities Friday.

Business amounted to an aggregate 2,000,000 shares as compared with 3,630,000 shares traded Friday when the market suffered its most serious decline in eight months.

All divisions were higher with weakness shown only in the cases of individual stocks. Oils were especially strong.

Among higher stocks were U.S. Steel, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, Boeing, RCA, International Telephone, Kennecott Copper, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Twin City Rapid Transit, a higher dividend, Nickel Plate, Gulf Oil, TXL Oil, Standard Oil (N.J.), and Johns-Manville.

Richfield Oil shot ahead between 6 and 8 points at times in the midst of Wall Street rumors of a new oil strike.

North American Aviation was up around 3 points at the best at near 87 on a proposed split and plans to raise new capital by the sale of common stock.

American Hawaiian Steamship gained between 4 and 5 at its top as the maritime administration approved tentatively its plans to build 10 roll-on-roll-off ships.

Niagara Mohawk Power was down between 1 and 2 points after starting on 9000 shares off 14 at 29. It was off 2 1/2 Friday following destruction of its Niagara Falls hydroelectric plant by a rock slide.

The Friday selling on news of the President's illness came as the stock market was recovering from a three-week reaction of a rather severe sort.

Brokers at that time were wondering whether the market could muster enough strength to go ahead definitely without a test of the common stock. Then the Eisenhower illness toppled prices.

Bellanca Aircraft on the American Stock Exchange dropped 5 1/4 points Friday and another 3 points at the opening today to trade at 10 1/2.

The stock opened on 90,000 shares off 3 at 6 near the end of the first hour. Trading was suspended for a time later but was resumed in an orderly manner.

A number of rumors for the cause of the heavy selling circulated in Wall Street, but brokers couldn't agree on a single cause.

RUSSIAN LEADERS HOUSE TO LOOK SEEN PRESIDENT 'GOD WELL' NOTE FOR REPUBLIC

Messages Also Come From Other Nations —Prayers at Service in Sweden.

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—The Moscow radio, according to its home service yesterday, that Russian leaders have sent a "get well" message to President Eisenhower.

The message was signed by Soviet President Voroshilov, Premier Bulganin and Communist Chief Nikita Khrushchev.

As broadcast, the message said: "To his excellency, Dwight Eisenhower, President of the United States, White House, Washington."

"It was with feelings of deep concern that we received news of your illness. Together with all our people, we express confidence that within a few days your health will be restored and you will be able to return to your lofty duties."

"With sincere respects, (signed) Voroshilov, Bulganin, Khrushchev."

Similar messages expressing wishes for a speedy recovery were sent to Mr. Eisenhower by Prime Minister Hattaya of Japan, President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China, President Rajendra Prasad of India and President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico.

In Stockholm a prayer for President Eisenhower was read at yesterday's service for visiting Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh in the British church of St. Peter and St. Paul.

The Washington correspondents of most nationally circulated British newspapers told their readers today that the American people are increasingly dubious of Mr. Eisenhower's physical fitness for reelection.

"Growing U. S. view he should quit fight," headlined the Daily Mail (Conservative). "There is deep distrust in the United States today over President Eisenhower's health despite the optimistic and almost ebullient statements of the doctors," the Mail said.

The pro-Labor party Daily Mirror declared: "Public confidence in the medical opinions has been shaken by Saturday's operation, and it will take much more than publicity about the lifting of the ban on the president's physical fitness for reelection."

The Times (Independent) said: "The political implications of his present illness have possibly assumed a greater importance than the fears inspired by his heart attack last year."

20,156 REGISTERED LAST THURSDAY IN COUNTY PRECINCTS

A total of 20,156 persons registered in St. Louis county in the intermediate registration held last Thursday, John J. Cole, chairman of the board of election commissioners, said today.

The registrations were in 360 precincts, with 1584 of the total being for persons who had moved from one precinct to another. The registration now with those added to the list last Thursday is about 242,000, but that figure will be reduced July 10 and 11 when a canvass will be held to strike the names of persons who have moved or died.

Largest registration last Thursday was 3892 in St. Ferdinand township. Other leading totals were: Lemay 3117; Airport 2641; and Gravois 1960.

Last day for registration for the Aug. 7 primary is July 2, and the last day for transferring registrations is July 17.

The committee chairman, Representative Francis E. Walter, (Dem.), Pennsylvania, announced the inquiry yesterday.

In a statement he posed the question: "Is this foundation, with its vast reservoir of funds and power, a friend or a foe in our nation's death struggle against the Communist conspiracy?"

The investigation promises to be one of the most controversial undertaken by any congressional committee in recent years.

The fund, set up with a $15,000,000 grant by the Ford Foundation, has a distinguished board of directors with roots in both major political parties. Its chairman is Paul G. Hoffman, the former foreign aid director, who is a personal friend of President Eisenhower.

Other directors include Chester Bowles, former Democratic Governor of Connecticut; John Lord O'Brien, a noted Washington attorney and Republican; Meyer Kestbaum, a business man now serving as special assistant to the President on government reorganization matters; Erwin Griswold, dean of the Harvard Law School, and Oscar Hammerstein II, the theatrical producer and writer.

On the other hand, American Legion leaders, radio commentator Fulton Lewis Jr. and some members of Congress have bitterly attacked the fund. They have aimed their strongest criticism at the fund's president, Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago.

Last September, Seaborn P. Collins, then national commander of the American Legion, urged the board of directors to "have no truck" with the fund. He said it was trying to "persuade Americans that Communism is not, and never has been, a serious threat to the United States."

After the quarrel with the Legion began, Dr. Hutchins said that he would hire a Communist if one was qualified for a particular job. He added that he had never seen a qualified Communist, but the statement brought more attacks.

In his announcement, Representative Walter said some of the fund's activities "have aroused criticism and doubt." He noted that the fund is tax-exempt and asked: "Are the leaders of this force... serving an interest inimical to our basic American traditions?"

Walter said the committee "is not at this time passing judgment on the fund for the Republic." He said the committee is seeking the objective facts.

In a statement issued in New York, Dr. Hutchins said the fund "should be based on careful inspection of its three-year record of activity." He added: "The board of directors and officers of the fund are proud of the work it has carried out and the aims for which it was created, to advance the principles of freedom and justice as set forth in the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence."

The fund's record of activity, Dr. Hutchins said, has been "a record of achievement." He said the fund has "been a force for good in the world."

HARRIMAN DENIES ANY ATTEMPT TO STOP STEVENSON

Asserts on TV His Remarks Against 'Moderation' Were Directed at Eisenhower.

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman, now an announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said today that any "stop-Stevenson" movement.

The New York Governor said yesterday that any remarks he has made against "moderation" and "middle-of-the-road" policies were directed at President Eisenhower and not at Adlai E. Stevenson.

Harriman announced Saturday his active candidacy for the Democratic nomination. Previously, he had called himself an "inactive" candidate.

Harriman has said he regards Stevenson as his main opponent for the nomination.

Harriman said in an interview on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" yesterday that he would not criticize or discuss positions taken by Stevenson or Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. He described both as "fine men."

DeSapio's Prediction. Meanwhile, Carmine G. DeSapio, a leading Harriman backer, said yesterday that Harriman would win the nomination, and with strong support from the western states.

"I have every confidence that the Governor will get the support of Nevada, Idaho, Washington, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Kansas and other states in that area," DeSapio said in a television interview. DeSapio is a Democratic national committee member.

Harriman's Western supporters have scheduled a rally for him in Denver next Thursday. Delegates with 80 to 90 national convention votes are expected to attend. Harriman already has most of New York's 88 delegate votes.

Harriman said he did not believe President Eisenhower's operation "will have any influence" on the campaign. DeSapio said the American public is "sensitive to the health problem and just can't be played down if you are going to be realistic about it."

Up to Eisenhower. DeSapio said only President Eisenhower can decide whether to run for reelection. "I am sure that no individual, in good conscience, will sacrifice the welfare of the people for his own personal ambition," DeSapio said.

Harriman said his own understanding of the international situation and the needs of the domestic economy make him the strongest candidate the Democrats could nominate.

Harriman held many high posts in the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations. He is a former Ambassador to Moscow.

Harriman, millionaire heir to a Union Pacific railroad fortune, declined to disclose his net worth but said he had no "plan to 'pick up the tab' for the cost of a campaign if he is nominated."

Harriman said he had not yet looked into the limitations on personal campaign contributions. This is the first time he has said a business man's committee will raise money for his campaign. He said there should be nothing against a man's spending money of his own money in seeking office.

"I've never found my money an inhibition against my candidacy," he said.

922,672,000-BUSHEL WHEAT FORECAST; LESS THAN 1955

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's government-restricted wheat crop at 922,672,000 bushels.

This is the first estimate for the full crop and compares with 938,139,000 produced last year and 1,146,547,000 for the 10-year (1945-54) average.

The winter wheat crop was forecast at 670,375,000 bushels compared with 681,432,000 bushels indicated a month ago. Production last year was 705,372,000 bushels and the ten-year average 872,655,000.

The forecast for the spring wheat crop—the first of the season—was 252,297,000 bushels compared with 232,787,000 produced last year and 273,912,000 for the 10-year average.

FISHERMAN TOWED 12 MILES BY FISH, LEFT STRANDED

NAHA, Okinawa, June 11 (AP)—A fish towed a fisherman 12 miles to sea off this island yesterday and left him stranded in a tiny boat.

Gaijin Tokeshi, who hooked what he termed an "undersea monster," was rescued today by an Air Force crash boat after he was spotted by the pilot of an incoming ship.

Tokeshi said he cut the fishing line after a struggle with the fish and then discovered the boat's three-horsepower motor was soaked with salt water and would not run.

GIRL SEES PARENTS DROWN

CHIPPewa FALLS, Wis., June 11 (UP)—A 6-year-old girl watched her father try to save her mother and Aunt from drowning yesterday, only to die with them.

Jack Anderson, 33, and sister, Ruth, 22, floundering in Lake Wisconsin, although he could not swim, he waded into the lake. The little girl waited until another couple came to swim. She told them she had watched her family drown.

How can Old Taylor 86 cost considerably less than our 100 proof bonded bourbon—and only slightly more than most other 86 proof straights?

The reasons are simple.

Old Taylor 86 is exactly the same in quality as our 100 proof bonded bourbon. It costs you less, only because of lower taxes.

Yet even in this milder, gentler proof, Old Taylor quality is unchanged—rich, mellow, and deeply satisfying.

SCHOOL TO AID RETARDED CUTS BUILDING PLANS

Fund Reduction Leads to Scaling Down Program to 340, Not 522 New Beds.

St. Louis State Training School for retarded children will be able to increase its facilities by only 340 beds at most instead of 522, as originally planned, because of cuts in its allocation of state funds, Dr. Arthur A. Hines, medical superintendent, said today.

Dr. Hines said that the $1,690,500 appropriation for the school approved last Friday by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly would permit construction of a new building for patients needing custodial care, as well as several other additions to present facilities.

However, he said, the money—part of the $75,000,000 state building bond issue fund—will not be enough to provide for two buildings of 76 beds each for defective delinquent children, nor will it permit construction of all four 30-bed buildings originally planned for children ready for release.

In the case of the building for custodial patients, Dr. Hines added, it is not certain whether a 250-bed structure will be started, as initially planned, or whether the size will be scaled down to 160 or 170 beds.

He said the building may be started on the 250-bed basis, with the hope that additional funds will be made available later.

In that case, he said, new beds would total 340. If the building is scaled down to 160-bed size, total new beds would be only 220, he added.

Two or three of the 30-bed buildings for children who are in their last six months or one year at the institution can be built with available funds. So can a maintenance building and storeroom, he said.

Dr. Louis H. Kohler, superintendent of St. Louis State Hospital, said it could not be determined at this time what effect the Governor's cut of $1,000,000 from funds voted for the hospital by the Legislature would have on its building plans.

The Governor's cut reduced bond issue funds for the hospital to $5,700,000. It eliminated a proposed $700,000 nurses' home and reduced by $300,000 an appropriation of $5,500,000 for a new 250-bed clinic and administrative headquarters. Dr. Kohler said he would have to confer with architects to determine whether the $300,000 cut would force a reduction in the number of beds in the new clinic building.

SULTAN'S DAUGHTER SAID TO HAVE SPURNED FAISAL

DAMASCUS, Syria, June 11 (AP) — The Damascus daily paper Al Nasr said today Princess Aisha, 27-year-old daughter of Morocco's Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, has "declined to give her hand in marriage" to 21-year-old King Faisal of Iraq.

The newspaper, quoting foreign diplomatic circles here, said the marriage proposal was made during Faisal's recent state visit to Morocco.

Crown Prince Abdul Ilah of Iraq made the proposition on Faisal's behalf to the Moroccan Sultan, who consulted his daughter before giving a negative answer, the paper added. Al Nasr said Aisha "apologized because of the age difference."

Radar proves difference in premium gasolines

How tests were made

Two identical cars were purchased on the open market and driven approximately 3000 miles—one on a leading competitive premium fuel, the other on Shell Premium with TCP*. (Other identical cars using other gasolines were similarly checked.) Full-throttle acceleration tests were then made over a measured course with results observed by radar. Typical "win" is shown above, the car fueled with Shell Premium well out front.

Shell Premium with TCP
outclasses competitive premium gasolines in full-throttle acceleration tests

Engineers have found that today's high-horsepower, high-compression engines are especially sensitive to certain deposits.

Within only a few thousand miles, deposits form which cause spark plugs to "miss." When this happens, power falls off.

Shell Premium with TCP overcomes harmful engine deposits, stops spark plug "miss," restores power. And don't forget, there are times when even the most careful driver needs a surge of power for safety.

Switch to Shell and feel the difference.

Hopper cars stranded on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad's mainline bridge across the Potomac river near Harper's Ferry, W. Blaze started near middle of the 1000-foot span when a hot journal box fell onto the cross-ties from one of the 125 coal cars in the east-bound freight. Hoses too short to reach the flames hampered firemen as they fought to control the blaze. Damage to the steel and concrete bridge was estimated at $100,000.

Postcard
Bow Tie Week
By Stan Delaplane

THIS is National Bow Tie week. It need not upset any of your plans. I only mention it to give an appearance that I am alert to the passing scene.

STAN DELAPLANE

I discount pictures of anybody in a bow tie and dinner jacket which does not make a man look like a good fellow. But rather like a waiter whose feet hurt.

This is a possible range of international good will that has not been explored by Mr. Dulles (a four-in-hand tie man) and his State Department.

Good fellows Khrushchev and Bulganin wore up-and-down ties on their visit to England. Who knows what perky effect it might have had on diplomacy if they had worn polka dots?

THE BOW TIE reached a certain peak when Harry Truman was hanging them on the doorknobs at the White House. Mr. Truman is a good fellow when he is not in a temper. There is a good deal to be said for the bow.

It gives the wearer a jaunty appearance.

It requires little cleaning, the area being smaller and if you spill, it seldom goes on your tie which is protected by the chin.

It ties easily, something like a shoelace.

If you are depressed, it is hard to hang yourself with them. You have to knot at least four bows together in order to hang yourself comfortably on the back of a coat. Even then it is not as convenient as a long tie.

It is the candidate's friend. Candidates who kiss babies run a frightful risk that some tot will grab a tie and throttle them before mother can disengage the grip.

The only other resort is to dislocate the tot's arm with a judo hold. And there goes the old election.

I HAVE NOT BEEN ABLE to find out much about the sponsoring Bow Tie Club, Ltd. What it is limited for and the name of the president. Shows you how fast the passing scene passes. Last week was Pickle week and all I got was a whiff of dill.

I think it is important though that it is for the promotion of good fellowship. The world is full of bad fellowship and I am for the good fellow who wants to reverse the trend. Having tried hot wars, cold wars, White Papers and black magic, I am willing to put a little faith in butterfly silk.

THERE HAS ALWAYS BEEN an undercurrent of comedy about the bow tie. Remember comic strip sequences of Father struggling with the bow?

A few flaring bows would improve any meeting at the summit.

They would give a giddy effect to the parley, a difficult atmosphere for gloom. Some of the younger members could wear those trick bows that light up from a pocket battery.

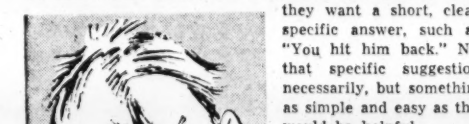

Why, you get a good party going up in the Hotel du Rhone. A couple of card tricks and the bow ties lighting up for laughs. You could swing a treaty as easy as swinging a cat by the tail.

When Child Hits You

By Frances Ilg, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.
Of the Gesell Institute of Child Development

"WHAT do you do when your child hits you?" parents very frequently ask.

Our answer, we fear, is sometimes disappointing to them. When people ask a question like this, so often they want a short, clear, specific answer, such as, "You hit him back." Not that specific suggestion, necessarily, but something as simple and easy as that would be helpful.

Actually, of course, the answer is usually more complex. To begin with, it makes quite a difference why the child is hitting you, how often he hits you, in what situations he hits you.

A FIRST GROUP of children hit their mothers (less often their fathers) as part of a program of what psychologists often call "testing the limits." That is, they quite reasonably are trying to find how far they can go, how much they can get away with. Anger on their part may or may not accompany the behavior, but the main motive of this group of children is to find out what will happen when they behave in this manner.

Your responsibility in such cases is to let them see that they cannot get away with it. What you do to impress this on them depends on what kind of punishment works with this particular child. It may be nothing more original than slapping the child's hand hard. But if you do this don't just hit back at him as he hits at you. Warn him, when he hits you for the first time, that if he does that again, you will have to slap him. He most likely will do it again, and then looking him firmly in the eye you slap his hand, making appropriate firm (but not hysterical) comments.

A SECOND GROUP of children hit, not to test the limits, but just because things are too much for them and this is the easiest way they know of to express their angry unhappiness, frustration, aggression, or whatever negative emotion they may be feeling. Thus their hitting should be looked on not as simply a bit of "bad" behavior—even though it is in itself bad. It is really a danger signal that something is wrong for the child.

If you take the pains to check and find out when this kind of behavior occurs, you will often discover that it comes mostly when he is over-tired, or hungry, or perhaps has become over-excited or too much frustrated in play. If the hitting thus seems related to any special time or any special situation, discovering what that time or that situation is, is the first step toward remedying the trouble.

If he just hits out at any time or much of the time, then you will want to try to find out what is wrong for him with his general life situation. But while you are finding this out, you may be helped and be able to help him temporarily, by using the same kinds of techniques that a nursery teacher uses. You can immediately shift the situation. You can introduce some new and interesting activity. You can say to him, "Tell me what you want, Tommy. Tell me. Don't hit me."

Many Factors in What to Do on a Date

Fun Opportunities Range From Formals to Picnics; How to Keep the Conversation Rolling

By Dr. Evelyn M. Duval

Second article in a series on teen-age boy-girl relationships. Here is sound, practical advice that also will interest parents. The author is a nationally known consultant on family relations.

WHAT you do on a date depends upon a great many factors: who you are, where you live, whom you are going with, what you can do, what you like to do, how much money you have to spend, what your parents consider permissible. And, above all, the ingenuity and imagination you possess for inventing ways of having a good time.

Special occasions sometimes come along requiring unusual recognition. Perhaps it is the girl's birthday. It may be a celebration for the boy's first big advancement, or graduation for one or both of them. Then they will probably want to "go out on the town," instead of just doing the same old things again.

In this situation it is wise for the boys to set the stage. The check will be his when the party is over, and prices differ so widely in commercial entertainment that he should suggest something within the scope of his ability to pay. Couples may pool their "special money" for such unusual spree and share the expense as well as the fun. Sometimes the boy gets tickets for some nice affair and surprises his date with the exciting novelty.

Flowers are not necessary for such a special affair, but are nice if the boy can afford them and the girl enjoys them. The way the two dress depends upon where they go and what they are to do. There are few places where formal clothing is expected, except, of course, at the formal proms that schools and colleges sponsor once a year or so.

Some of the most enjoyable dates are those spent at picnics, around barbecue fires, and at other such informal outings. Either the boy or the girl or both together can plan and arrange for this kind of date.

Other couples too are included, for at a picnic "the more the merrier." You do not even have to invite people in couples for the informal outing.

Keeping conversation rolling is a challenge to most boys and girls. They feel so "special" with each other that the usual things to talk about somehow seem not quite appropriate. They may have no trouble at all talking with other boys and girls, but a regular chatterbox at home. But together they are tongue-tied until they "get the feel" of what to talk about with each other.

The topic that is sure to be of greatest interest to a boy and girl is that of Him and Her. This is an area in which they are experts. Each knows his own interests better than anyone else. Each enjoys telling of them. Both like to talk about and to share the things they like. Discovering that they like the same things and have common interests is very pleasant. In fact, looking for such similar interests is a conversational pastime among people everywhere.

WHEN someone is talking to you, you have the responsibility of listening to what is being said. Really listening to another person does not mean just being quiet while the other is speaking. There are people who spend the time when others are talking in thinking up what they plan to say next. That does not make for conversation at its best.

Listening involves giving one's whole attention to the other, getting not only his words but also meanings as far as one can.

SPECIAL OCCASIONS SOMETIMES COME ALONG REQUIRING UNUSUAL RECOGNITION. PERHAPS IT IS THE GIRL'S BIRTHDAY.

Genuine listening includes putting oneself in the other person's shoes and getting the feel of what he is saying. You sense what is prompting his words, so you reflect in your interest that you have not only heard his words but that you know something of his feeling.

"Nice folks don't swear." Profanity adds little to any conversation. There are few occasions when a profane word or statement is nearly as original, clever, or interesting as something that particularly fits that situation, made to order for it as it were.

Off-color stories set an atmosphere that spoils the enjoyment boys and girls can find with each other as friends. As soon as shady stories begin, the party is immediately divided into the men's and women's side of life, with each being acutely aware of which is which. The tone set is one of emotional uneasiness, in which little wholesome companionship is possible.

That is not to say that boys and girls should not talk about sex or about each other while they are together. It is all right to discuss dating and dating behavior if the tone is wholesome and each respects the other's wishes.

It is not so much what is talked about as the way in which it is discussed that makes the big difference between clean conversation and smutty talk.

IN many communities, a good-night kiss is expected as the customary way of ending a date. It is usually enjoyable to both boys and girls, especially if they both know what it signifies. A goodnight kiss can mean any number of things. It may be the way a girl says "Thank you" to the boy for giving her a good time. It may be a way of saying, "I like you." It may signify their special awareness of each other as dating boy and girl friends. It may be just a way of saying, "Come again." Or it may be a very special token of genuine affection. What it means depends upon the two persons and their definition of their relationship and of themselves.

Most girls, and boys, too, agree that the first date is too soon for a goodnight kiss. Girls say that it seems too easy when it closes the very first date. Boys sometimes confess that they will try to kiss a girl the first time they take her out but that they really do not expect her to allow it, especially if she is the kind of girl they respect. Both boys and girls generally feel that a couple should have seen each other long enough to have become somewhat better acquainted than is possible after just one date, before they kiss each other.

SOME grown boys collect kisses and caresses from girls in much the same way that they collected marbles as kids. The game in either sport is to see how high a score can be run up: the more marbles, the better player; the more kisses, the higher the dating score. The big difference is that they played marbles for keeps, and the kisses are definitely not for keeps, but simply a badge of power.

Petting, and the kind of kissing that goes with it, is not always indulged in by the kiss-collecting Lothario, but it happens often enough for girls and many boys to ask the question, "Do you have to pet to be popular?" Students of high schools and colleges who have voted on the question reply with an emphatic "No."

They say that the most popular students of both sexes are not the promiscuous petters. They report, too, that the girls and young men who have reputations as petters are not the ones who are most in demand as friends or club members or even as dates.

Boys and girls, men and women, who respect one another as personalities, may from time to time want to express their affection with some physical caress. But this is a far cry from the indiscriminate handling that goes under the name of petting. If one wants to be popular as a person, promiscuous petting is a decided handicap.

When you first started to learn to drive a car, you faced many questions and a great deal of uneasiness that wore off as you got the hang of driving. When you were learning to ride a bike, you probably felt pretty wobbly at times. And then came the time when you pedaled off down the street and not a thought of how you were doing it.

So it is with dating. You learn how to do it by doing it. At first you will feel somewhat uncomfortable in new situations and embarrassed in unexpected predicaments. But with experience you polish off the rough edges and become smooth. There is no magic about it. It is just a matter of following sound principles and keeping up your practice, and one day you find yourself comfortably competent in dating situations.

QUESTION: Is it right to say something is "funny" when you really mean "odd"? For instance, "He had a funny habit of scratching his ear before he started to speak."

ANSWER: "Funny" in the sense of "odd" or "peculiar" is very often heard informally—in conversation and the like. However, in formal English, such as speeches or printed matter, "funny" should be used only in the sense of "comic" or "humorous."

Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

Furniture Repairs.

FOR the past several months we've been collecting in our attic some dining room chairs and one kitchen stool that had finally reached the point where to sit on them was a considerable hazard.

Seems that all the rungs along with the legs had become loose and rather than have them cause damage to whoever sat on them we decided to fix them for emergency use in the house.

First step was to take them apart. In most cases this was pretty easy as the rungs and legs easily pulled out. Some of the glued joints were reinforced with small brads and these we pulled out with a pair of pliers and then took the joint apart. In those cases where the old glue held, we used a solution of warm water and vinegar to soften up the glue.

After we had the pieces apart we used fine sandpaper to remove the old glue.

Next we tested each rung for size by inserting it into the hole. We wanted the rung to fit loose enough so that when it and the inside of the hole were coated with glue we could assemble the parts, but we didn't want the rung too loose for in this case it wouldn't hold in place of the glue. On the rungs that were too tight we used a little sandpaper to shave them down. On the loose ones we coated the end with glue and then wrapped silk thread around the ends.

Next we gave the inside of each hole a thin film of glue and the same for the ends of the rungs. We fitted the pieces back together and wiped away any excess glue. We used strong cord to bind the pieces together to keep them under pressure until the glue was dry.

Last but not least we reinforced the joints with brads driving them into the joints at angles.

WOOLENS AND HATS are fresher they're brushed before they're put away instead of afterward, and shoe leather stays in so much better condition if it's kept soft with polish all the time.

BELOW THE SHELVES there's plenty of room for a small hamper. Shoes can be set on racks on the closet floor below short bags for suits and blouses. Make sure every garment is properly hung so it won't wrinkle and droop out of shape.

Suspend coats, jackets, dresses and blouses on padded or broad-shouldered hangers in garment bags.

Never fold skirts or slacks over a hanger rod, but use hangers made for them and use hat boxes or stands for hats, sweater bags or boxes for sweaters, or fold them in tissue paper in a drawer.

Broiled Shrimp

Ingredients: One pound shrimp, one-fourth cup butter, 2 tablespoons olive oil, one small clove garlic (peeled and minced), salt, paprika, two tablespoons minced parsley.

Method: Shell raw shrimp and devein. Melt butter in a small shallow pan; stir in olive oil and garlic. Add shrimp, turning them over in the butter-oil mixture to make sure they are well coated. Sprinkle lightly with salt and paprika. Broil shrimp rapidly until cooked through, turning once and sprinkling again with paprika. Broiling will take five to eight minutes. Sprinkle with parsley and serve at once. Crusty bread is good dunked in the sauce. Makes three to four servings.

Secrets of Charm

A Caretaker Closet

GROOMING TRICKS LEAVE CLOTHES ALWAYS READY TO WEAR.

SUCCESSFUL clothes grooming is never last minute. It must be day in and day out, and is best when check-up and repair comes as clothes are removed after wearing.

A spot is more likely to disappear without a trace if it's treated before it's hung in the closet, and there's no taking it out again to discover it can't be worn if the snafu's sewn on the tip is mended, and the pressing's done or it was sent to the cleaner immediately.

AMONG the wonders of nature, there are few which surpass the volcano. In public interest, we have dead volcanoes, living volcanoes and some which may, or may not, have life in them.

Q. What was the origin of the word "volcano"?

A. It came from the name of Vulcan, or Vulcanus, the Roman god of fire. The Latin word was changed to "volcano" or "volcano."

Q. Does a volcano always have a cone?

A. Not always. A volcano exists when lava or hot ashes come out of the ground. The ground was level when the volcano known as Paricutin appeared in a field in Mexico 13 years ago.

Starting from "nothing," Paricutin built up a cone 140 feet high inside of a week. In less than a year, that cone passed the height of a quarter of a mile!

A mound, commonly called a cone, is built up by the lava and ashes which a volcano sends out. It grows from lava which hardens, also from ashes which drop around the opening.

Q. Is Paricutin the only "new" volcano on record?

A. Several records exist of new volcanoes. Jorulla, another Mexican volcano, started in much the same way 197 years ago. A hole was blown in the midst of a plain, and a cone with a height of a quarter of a mile was formed. That was the principal cone. Several other smaller cones were built up in the same area.

Eleven years after Jorulla appeared, a new volcano started in what is now the republic of El Salvador. This Central American volcano has erupted many times since then; the cone now has a height of 11,700 feet.

Most volcanoes, however, are very old. Many of them go back to times before there were people on earth.
